WILL NOT PAY WAR TRIBUTES

Emperor Nicholas and His Councillors Are Obdurate.

STILL DEADLOCKED

M. Witte Must Have Instructions Today or Conference Cannot Proceed.

MYSTERY ABOUT OYSTER BAY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 21.—The result of President Roosevelt's effort to save the peace conference from failure remains in suspense. No direct reply to the president's proposition communicated by M. Witte yesterday has come from Emperor Nicholas tonight, but other advices received from St. Petersburg indicate that the emperor and his councillors are unshaken in their determination neither to cede territory nor pay war tributes.

What the president is doing on the Japanese side remains as deep a mystery as ever. Little light is shed upon the visits of Baron Kaneko to Oyster Bay. The Japanese do not even admit he is their medium of communication with the president. They go no farther than to reiterate that Mr. Roosevelt understands their position and that they have the fullest confidence in him. They show not the slightest indication that they have in any wise changed their position or prepared to yield more than they were last Friday, when the plenipotentiaries adjourned until tomorrow.

If M. Witte does not receive fresh instructions before 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the conference is resumed, the situation will be exactly what it was when the adjournment was taken on Friday.

Intense Moment Comes Today.

Both sides will present their protocols for signature. One side or the other must then make a move or all that will be left will be a brief final protocol certifying that they have reached the parting of the ways and to bid each other farewell. But such an abrupt termination is hardly anticipated. Baron Komura, if M. Witte has nothing to propose, might present Japan's irreducible minimum embodying the final concessions she is prepared to make, if she is prepared to make any, or formally propose collective consideration of all the articles still in dispute. Any move on either side would involve another adjournment or such an adjournment might be frankly proposed by M. Witte, as he would not be guilty of the discourtesy of allowing the conference to go to pieces before receiving a specific reply to President Roosevelt's proposition.

It is safe to assume therefore that in the absence of such a reply the conference will be prolonged beyond tomorrow and every delay, in the opinion of the president's friends, means hope, faint though it may be. Mr. Roosevelt's object was obviously described today as being to prolong the negotiations.

Witte Not Supported at Home.

There is warrant for the statement that M. Witte personally sympathizes with the president's proposition, no matter how it may be regarded by his imperial master and the latter's advisors. It is a mistake to suppose that in considering such a porposition the emperor consults a regularly ordained council. Throughout the conference he has been calling in council such advisors as he deemed wise, some of his relatives, the grand dukes, members of the court and certain chosen ministers. The Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, one of the most powerful of his relatives, is known to be absolutely opposed to yielding an iota beyond what M. Witte has already conceded. As an alternative he favors the continuation of the war.

The spirit of all the advices received has been such as almost to preclude hope of an eleventh-hour change. The general belief here is that President Roosevelt, while he has the moral support of one of the neutral powers, has not received the active aid he expected. England's declination to offer advice to Japan is disappointing, though the motives that actuate her in refusing to do anything that might be construed as an attempt to exercise pressure upon her ally tending to rob her of the fruits of her victory are fully appreciated. There are evidences here that co-operation by Great Britain would be resented by Japan.

Holding Out No Hope.

Among the Japanese tonight no note of hope is sounded. With genuine reluctance they seem almost resigned to the shipwreck of the conference. They declare that their position is unchanged and they speak of renewing their war with a snap of their black eyes which speaks volumes for their confidence in the success of Oyama when the word is given to advance.

"We have fought for a lasting peace," said one of the attaches closest to the chiefs. "We have been victorious. If Russia came to Portsmouth unprepared to pay the price of defeat all is over. We do not believe that the president considers our terms unreasonable. He knows Japan's position as accurately as does either of the Japanese plenipotentiaries. We do not believe he will even ask us to weaken at the last moment and yield, even to save the negotiations. Heartily as the whole world desires peace, Japan believes the neutral powers would prefer that war should continue for a year or even two years longer than that Japan, for the sake of immediate peace, should make concessions now and be forced perhaps a decade hence to reopen hostilities."

The plenipotentiaries and members of the suites apparently had little to do today. Those of the latter who were not engaged in completing the final drafts of the protocols joined in the festivities of this pleasant summer resort. But when the subject of negotiations was mentioned their answers were almost invariably pes-

WAITING FOR THE SHOW DOWN.

HOPE LINGERS AT OYSTER BAY

The President Has Not Relaxed His Efforts to Bring About Peace.

RECEIVES IMPORTANT VISITOR

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—President Roosevelt has not abandoned hope of a successful issue of the peace conference. Neither has he relaxed his efforts to prevent a rupture between the conferees when they reconvene tomorrow at Portsmouth.

Events of importance succeeded each other rapidly here today. On an early morning train Baron Kaneko, a confidential representative in this country of the Japanese government, arrived in Oyster Bay quite unexpectedly. He has a general invitation to visit the president at any time and was received as soon as he arrived at Sagamore Hill. That he was the bearer of important information is known, but the nature of his messages is not disclosed. He remained with the president three-quarters of an hour. At the conclusion of the conference the baron declined even to discuss his mission, although he politely expressed regret at his inability to enlighten his interrogators.

Surrounded by a half dozen newspapermen he talked with apparent frankness, but his words were not luminous with information. He expressed the opinion, which he was careful to note was simply his own, that Japan had made every concession in the conference that a victorious power could be expected to make and that the people would resent any serious recession by the envoys from the position they had taken.

Not the slightest indication of the correspondence was permitted to become public. The president, acting as an intermediary between the two warring governments, feels that secrecy is even more incumbent upon him than as though the matter related wholly to him, personally, or to the United States.

No intimation of the president's opinion of the result of the meeting when the conferees reconvene tomorrow is given.

Chairman Shonts Says Canal Commission Will First Provide for Workers.

HOUSES AND PAY STATIONS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Theodore P. Shonts, chairman of the Isthmian canal commission, who arrived in New York a few days ago from an inspection trip to the Panama canal strip, arrived here tonight to confer with President Roosevelt on matters pertaining to the construction of the canal. He was expected to arrive in time for 7 o'clock dinner at Sagamore Hill, but missed his train in New York, and did not reach Oyster Bay until 7:40 o'clock. He said he could not discuss the purpose of his visit until he had seen the president.

Chairman Shonts returned to the Oyster Bay station in time to catch the 10.03 train to New York.

"My call on the president," said he, "was neither significant nor important. When I returned from the Isthmus, I reported to the president by letter outlining my observations and explaining the character of the work being done. Tonight I simply elaborated that letter.

"We are engaged principally now in providing for the proper housing, feeding and prompt payment of the employes who are to do the actual digging of the canal. A comprehensive plan for the work of construction is being developed by Chief Engineer Stevens and his assistants. As soon as these necesary preliminaries are completed the canal construction proper may be said to have been begun."

FRIEND OF YOUNG FOLKS GOES HOME

Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, Editor of St. Nicholas, Ends Her Labor of Love.

WROTE TO SUPPORT HER BOYS

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Aug. 21.

Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, editor of St. Nicholas Magazine ever since its foundation in 1873, died today at her summer home at Onteora park, Tannersville, N. Y. She had been in ill health for several months, but recovered sufficiently about two months ago to go to Tannersville. She was 74 years of age.

Few of the present generation of Americans or of the rising generation have not at some time been charmed by the work of Mrs. Dodge. Her field was children's stories, and so successful was she that her "Hans Brinker, or the Silver Skates," "Rhymes and Jingles" and "Donald and Dorothy" have become schoolroom classics. As editor of St. Nicholas during her 32 years' service she reached innumerable homes, where her delightful stories will long be remembered.

The history of Mrs. Dodge's success does not tell of any long training for the work, which has now made her famous in all civilized countries. As the daughter of Prof. Joseph J. Mapes, Mrs. Dodge whose native city was New York, was reared to an education as good as the girls in her day received.

Miss Mapes married William Dodge, a lawyer of this city. He died a few years after their marriage and left his widow with two young boys. Then, after wondering what she could do to support herself and family, without previous preparation or training, she wrote several short stories, which were accepted, and so well liked that she was at once overwhelmed with orders for more. She then wrote "Irvington Stories," which also were successful. Further calls were made for her work, and "Hans Brinker" followed in 1865. More copies of it have been sold than of any book for children published in this country.

Mrs. Dodge was connected with Hearth and Home for three years after the publication of "Hans Brinker," and then retired to do more original work, only to be called in 1873 by the Scribners to take the editorship of St. Nicholas, when that magazine was started.

The New York home of Mrs. Dodge was at 255 West Fifty-seventh street. In her study, known as the "St. Nicholas room," she occasionally received the young folks and told them of her plans to please them. During recent years she seldom went to her office.

FRAUD CHARGE IS RESENTED

Philadelphia Republicans Direct Re-Canvass of Voters.

WILL CORRECT LISTS

City Committeemen Denounce the Allegations of Bogus Registrations.

MARTIN MAKES VIGOROUS TALK

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Press Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Aug. 21.

Believing that the recent police canvass of the assessors' lists, whereby upwards of 90,000 fraudulent registrations were alleged to have been discovered, was not reliable, the Republican city committee today, by a unanimous vote, adopted a resolution directing the various ward committees to make a thorough canvass of each division and have the assessors' lists revised and corrected. The canvassers are instructed to report the result to the assessors on September 5 and 6.

There was a full attendance at the meeting. Addresses were made by Insurance Commissioner David Martin, City Chairman James L. Miles and David H. Lane. Chairman Miles denounced the police canvass, charged that it was unfair and made for political purposes, and continued:

"As to the canvasses that have been made, every man knows how unfair and how untrue they are. In the division in which I live the City party reported 101 names to be stricken from the list as fraudulent, and I give you my personal guarantee that there was not a single name placed upon that list last May that did not belong there, and that between last May and the present time there have not been more than 6 or more removals from that division. Since my return to the city my name and my colleague in the ward committee have been ordered stricken from the list because our houses are closed and we are away from the city. Away with such reform! Away with such pretense to honesty!"

Martin Favors Re-Canvass.

Commissioner Martin demanded a count and an honest one. He said:

"I am in favor of the adoption of the resolution providing that the gentlemen who are here today in this room will faithfully carry it out. There is no use of passing this resolution if the members of this committee and the presidents of the various ward committees do not go to their ward committees and insist that it shall be done. I believe that a majority of the assessors in Philadelphia who made this canvass are honest and made an honest count of their divisions, and if there are any in any of the other wards who have padded their lists as accused, and they continue to keep such names on the list, I for one am in favor of prosecuting them. The police have made a canvass of my ward and return 1,836 names; and I say to this committee that there are not 50 names on the list that did not not belong there in May. We will take the 1,836 names off that list, and we will add 1,836 or more to it, and we defy the police or the Committee of Seventy to take them off.

"We have a meeting tonight of the assessors in conjunction with the members of the committee, and we are going to ask and going to insist that the members of the committee take the assessor with them, not on the fourth or fifth day of September, but this week; and add the name of every man to their list that has moved in there since the May assessment, and the law gives them the right to do it.

Wants Every Man's Name.

"Let him write the name of every man who moved from the division, every man who has died or removed, so that we can answer the Committee of Seventy or the police officers, and let the committee be called for next Monday, and let us know whether it has been done in these various wards.

"There is no occasion for any false registration in Philadelphia. We have over 150,000 Republicans in this city. Some years ago I insisted on a canvass. I am satisfied today that we have 150,000 or 170,000 Republicans if they are brought to the polls to vote.

"Make the canvass fair and let the president of the ward committees see that it is done. Don't let the Republican majority of assessors of this city be blamed for what five or six may do."

In his summary Mr. Lane stated the matter this way:

Our opponents charge us with padding the

SEVERE ROAST FROM RAMSEY

Vice President Delano of the Wabash Is Called Down for Talking.

SERVICE DEFENDED

Secret Agents and Train Collectors Are Necessary to Railroading.

ECONOMY OF THE RIGHT SORT

President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., of the Wabash, has sent a stinging reply to the charges made against his management in a recent interview of Vice President Frederick A. Delano.

Mr. Delano, with one leg away, abolished the special service employes and the ticket collectors on trains, a couple of hundred heads going into the basket in one day. He called these departments "foolish things."

Mr. Ramsey's letter defends these two classes of employes and calls Mr. Delano's attention to official etiquette. Mr. Ramsey's term as president not expiring until October. The answer also points out some alleged errors of fact and gives Mr. Delano some advice on railroading. The letter was sent from Trondo, Norway, the point on Mr. Ramsey's European tour where the criticisms of Mr. Delano reached him. Mr. Ramsey is now in France and will sail for New York August 29. The letter follows:

Hints at Advertisement.

"My Dear Mr. Delano: I never was more surprised in my life than when I read your interview relative to the large saving (?) you had made by abolishing the special service and train collector departments, and your comments on the 'foolishness' of such things.

"It is such a common thing for men and roads to advertise themselves through newspapers by showing what they can do and save, as compared with others, that I would have paid little attention to your advertisement, although it was full of misstatements, but when you so far forget yourself and the relations which should exist between the vice president and the president of the company as to indulge in open newspaper comments and criticisms of the president's methods and policies, branding them as 'foolishness,' I feel that I must call your attention to the breach of good manners and to some of the misstatements made by you. You surely could not have been fully informed regarding the special service and the train collectors' work, for if you had been you would not have made the statements you did.

Collectors Carefully Selected.

"First. The superintendent of special service, Mr. C. O. Frame, had nothing to do with the train collectors.

"Second. Mr. Shuster was superintendent of train collectors, not subordinate to Mr. Haines, but reporting to the president. Train collectors were carefully selected as to honesty and respectability, must be of good address and be well recommended and bonded by a surety company approved by the president.

"Third—They receive $65 a month after first six months and then for every five years' service $5 a month extra. A large number was receiving $70 a month at the time that your statement that $75-a-month men were doing the work of $125 and $140 a month men was not correct.

"After you have been on the Wabash long enough you will discover that these $125 and $140 a month men (conductors) will have all they want to do, or can do properly to attend to their train running, look after train orders, etc., and run their trains safely. It may take a few months to impress this upon you (as it has others), but you will then conclude that reducing the payroll by increasing the work on conductors is not always a saving.

Play to the Galleries.

"Your remarks about espionage on employes' is surely a 'play to the galleries.' You must certainly know that on a road of 2,500 miles, handling millions of passengers and tons of freight annually, with hundreds of thousands of claims for loss and damage to freight, personal injuries, thefts and robberies innumerable, investigations and witnesses wanted by the legal department, a 'special service' department has its hands full and that 'espionage of employes' is only an incidental feature.

"It is just as much the duty of a general manager to know that his rules are being lived up to and enforced properly as it is to provide safe rules. This is a proper 'espionage,' and the manager who does not insist upon it, and uses all proper means to know that they are being lived up to, is morally, at least, responsible for any deaths resulting from such violations of the rules.

"What good is it to learn at an investigation, after an accident, that the engineer, conductor, switchman, operator, or whoever caused it, was under the influence of liquor? Is it not far better to find out before who are the drinking men and remove them?

"I sincerely regret the necessity for writing such a letter to you, but on account of the publicity given your interview and the unusual character of your criticism, in justice to myself and others I am forced to correct your errors of fact and answer comments.

"Respectfully yours,
(Signed) "J. RAMSEY, JR.,
"President."

THIS STRANGE RED DEVIL DOES A REAL OUTLAW STUNT

Pittsburgh Police Turn the Trick and Now Are Holding the Owner of the Machine Responsible for Damage.

A precedent has been established for automobiles that run madly through the streets and seize peoples' baggage from their hands. The rule set down by the Pittsburgh bureau of police is that the owners of the gasoline highwaymen must pay for the damage they cause. For a machine to turn outlaw is a little extraordinary, but nevertheless just such a strange circumstance occurred in Fifth avenue yesterday afternoon.

John Woodward of Leetonia, O., was walking up Fifth avenue and carried a suit case. Suddenly an automobile, it is alleged, driven by a woman, rushed up behind him, knocked the piece of baggage from his hands and rolled it along the curbstones. Woodward, who is 17 years old, was accompanied by his aunt, Mrs. Mary Davis of 809 Woodward avenue, West Park. The young man ran after the machine and gathered up his broken suit case. Mrs. Davis asked the woman in the machine to pay for the damage she had caused, and, it is alleged, got this reply:

"Mind your own business. You have too much to say."

The matter was reported to Superintendent of Police Wallace, and it was stated that the automobile bore the license number, 855, and the initials, "M. R. J." An examination of the list of automobiles in the city by the police revealed that the machine was owned by M. R. Jackson of the Bellefield dwellings. Supt. Wallace gave Woodward a note to the owner with a request that he pay the boy for his damaged suit case. Mr. Jackson was not at home last night and a statement of his side of the affair could not be obtained.

KEEPS NO TAB ON GUESTS' DRINKS

Witness in Taggart Case Shows She's a True Hostess—Denies Drinking Bout.

BAD STORIES ON THE MAJOR

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 21.—Fresh interest was injected into the Taggart divorce case this evening, by the arrival of Col. Miner and Capt. D. W. Rither. Col. Miner's name has been associated in the testimony with the dining table incident, when he and Mrs. Taggart sat together and the colonel's hands are declared not to have been kept above the table throughout the meal. Both he and Capt. Rither are named in the divorce petition of Maj. Taggart. They will go on the stand tomorrow to testify for Mrs. Taggart.

The climax in today's testimony came when Maj. Taggart, who accuses his wife of misconduct with other men, was himself alleged to have had more than platonic relations with a dusky Filipino coquette. The statement was made by Mrs. Vose, wife of Dr. W. E. Vose, and a niece of Mrs. Taggart. She lived with the Taggarts in Manila. "Two different times at night," said Mrs. Vose, "when Mrs. Taggart was away from home, I saw Maj. Taggart take Augustina de la Cruz, a Filipino woman, into a bedroom in his house and lock the doors."

Mrs. Saffrons was also on the stand today and told of the alleged drinking bout at Matanzas, Cuba. She said that Maj. Taggart, intoxicated, walked into the cafe where the women sat with an officer, and interrupted proceedings by knocking a glass of champagne from his wife's hand.

Capt. Poore's deposition was taken up at the point where it was left off when court adjourned Saturday. After listening to a band concert he had escorted Mrs. Taggart to her home, and when leaving the house he heard some one inside yell: "For God's sake! He's killing her!" Capt. Poore did not go back, for fear that his presence would further excite Maj. Taggart. The next day Mrs. Taggart asked him to appeal to Col. Miner for protection, which he did. The witness said that Mrs. Taggart's face and hands were bruised and there was a raw mark on her shoulder.

On cross-examination he said that he and Mrs. Poore, Capt. Fortescue and Mrs. Taggart had drunk "considerable liquor" that night and that Mrs. Taggart frequently met guests at his home.

Mrs. Poore's deposition substantiated most of her husband's story. She said that Mrs. Taggart's body was covered with bruises, that she had been kicked, that her hair had been pulled out and that her dress was torn to pieces.

How many drinks did the party have at your house that night? was asked.

I never kept track of the number of drinks my guests take, was the answer.

Mrs. Poore denied having had a drinking contest at Fort Thomas, and added, "Whoever says so lies."

Capt. Saffrons said by deposition that he had taken a great many drinks with Maj. Taggart, but that he had never seen him drunk. This afternoon Mrs. Fannie Saffrons of Fort Logan, Col., took the stand, and in describing the drinking incident at Matanzas, said she and Mrs. Taggart had gone to a cafe with two officers, who had been calling at the Taggart home. One of the officers paid a bill and the proprietor presented the party with a bottle of champagne.

We were just about to take our first drink of it, she said, when in walked Capt. Taggart, wearing an overcoat, and knocked the glass out of Mrs. Taggart's hand. He took her home. I followed her shortly afterward.

How did Capt. Taggart bid you good-by when you left Cuba?

He kissed me good-by.

Did you ever observe anything improper in Mrs. Taggart's actions?

I never saw her do anything out of the way. Capt. Taggart kept the best-stocked sideboard in Fort Thomas. He kept all kinds of liquors and ingredients for making fancy drinks. Capt. Taggart drank frequently. I never saw Mrs. Taggart smoke nor heard her tell lewd stories.

Cross-examination developed that the bill paid in the cafe at Matanzas was a private bill of one of the officers, and not a bill of the government for rental of officers as pleaded by the defense. The witness denied that she was in any way connected with the Lieut. English courtmartial; that English ever bought her silk stockings or other finery with the government's money.

What kind of a mother is Mrs. Taggart? she was asked.

The best mother I ever knew.

How old was "Tiddies" when Mrs. Taggart left him with a nurse at Fort Thomas and went to Cuba for six months?

He was six months old at the time.

Do you call that a good mother—to go away and leave a six-months-old child for six months?

I don't know.

Dr. W. E. Vose of Fort Sheridan, Ill., an assistant surgeon in the United States army, and a nephew by marriage of Mrs. Taggart, was called to the stand, but his testimony as to the use of liquors by Maj. Taggart was not admitted. He gave a definition of "acute alcoholism."

Mrs. Vose then told of her visits to the Taggart home in Manila; of the drive they took one afternoon to the Lunetta, when Mrs. Taggart went in Capt. Bash's carriage; of their return home that evening, and of Taggart swearing at Bash for getting in the way with his carriage.

I would say that Maj. Taggart was intoxicated that evening, she testified. I saw him slap Mrs. Taggart after the encounter with Bash. On another occasion, the evening of a ball, Taggart came home drunk and struck Mrs. Taggart because she wanted to go to the ball and he didn't want to go. One night after I had gone to bed Major Taggart came home, leaving Mrs. Taggart on the ship. He went into the front bedroom with Augustina and locked the door. One afternoon he took Augustina into a bed-room downstairs and locked the door. On another occasion I saw Major Taggart go into the dining-room, where Augustina slept, in his night gown. Some time afterwards I was asked by the coachman to give Augustina some medicine and found she was suffering with troubles of a maternity nature.

Mrs. Vose stated she knew where Mrs. Taggart was "every minute while in Manila," but on cross-examination admitted that at times there were stretches of hours when she could not tell where Mrs. Taggart was. The court room will be packed tomorrow to hear the testimony of Col. Miner.

YELLOW FEVER TAKES A BOUND

VICTIM CAUSES A PANIC

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 21.—The yellow fever report to 6 p. m. today is as follows:

New cases	61
Total to date	1,446
Deaths	9
Total	205
New Foci	16
Total	322
Cases under treatment	328

Yellow fever took a bound forward today in New Orleans and the situation in the state is far from satisfactory. The official figures for New Orleans today show a material increase in new cases and in disease centers.

Nine persons died today of yellow fever, more than on any one day since August 14, when a record of 12 deaths was made. Health officers explain that the report is always high on Monday, because of unavoidable laxity in reporting on Sunday.

Numbers of merchants called on Dr. White today to ask his intercession in the amelioration of restrictions imposed against freight by towns like Lake Charles, which desires no intercourse with New Orleans. Merchants believe that Dr. White's intervention may bring many of the smaller communities to a recognition of the harmlessness of receiving merchandise from infected points.

Insisted on Being Fined.

President Charles Janvier of the citizens committee, whose work of raising funds and arousing public interest in their work is acknowledged by federal officers, today insisted on being found guilty of failure to screen a tank when arraigned before Recorder Palin. The tank was of running water in his attic. There has been some difference of opinion as to whether it came within the law and whether oiling would not be a better protection than screening. Mr. Janvier chose to oil. The ward committee made an affidavit, however, whereupon Mr. Janvier promptly screened the tank. When Janvier appeared before the recorder he was discharged. Some comment followed, and Mr. Janvier had the case reopened and asked to be fined, which is the only case of a fine imposed where the property holder promptly screened after an affidavit was made.

Case of Fever in Court.

Prisoners, court attaches and hangers-on at the second criminal court were thrown into something of a panic today when a genuine case of yellow fever was discovered in the dock. The man was found ill among a number of prisoners, and the doctor who was called promptly diagnosed the case as yellow fever. The screened ambulance immediately carried the man to the emergency hospital. A flying squad was sent for and the dock and the court room were thoroughly disinfected. The patient was an Italian, who was arrested on Saturday night, and remained in prison until today. The jail will also be fumigated.

Unusual precautions, under the supervision of the marine hospital service or otherwise, are to be taken to prevent a recrudescence of the fever next spring. It has been demonstrated by scientists that the stegomyia mosquitoes hibernate. A vigilant watch will therefore be kept when the winter passes for any cases which may then appear in the south.

JACKSON, MISS., Aug. 21.—Secretary Hunter of the state board of health received a report today from Mississippi City health authorities saying that one new case of yellow fever appeared there today. The patient is Miss Georgia Money, a granddaughter of United States Senator Money.

FRAUD CHARGE RESENTED

assessors' lists with fraudulent names, and cite a recent canvass to prove it. Let us examine it. About one-third of our population changes residence every year. Our opponents at the last national campaign showed 390,000 votes, which would involve a change of 130,000 voters in a year. Applying this calculation to the four months that elapse between the May and September assessment, there ought to be 44,000 removals (including deaths) to be stricken from the list. The police canvass reports 60,000. Notwithstanding this condition we are charged with padding the lists with 60,000 bogus, illegal and fraudulent votes. This wholesale allegation is based on the fact that in a few of the 1,130 divisions that the city is divided in frauds have been committed. This merely proves that instead of being general it is quite limited.

The Democratic city committee will meet Friday night, when it will also order a canvass of the city.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

CLAIMS HEAVY DAMAGES.

Complainant Says Testimony in Schuylkill Arsenal Investigation Libels Him.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—Suit to recover $10,000 damages for alleged slander, libel and defamation of character, was instituted in common pleas court today by Marris Busch, a manufacturer and member of councils, against Charles A. Bowman. The latter was served with a capias, upon which Judge Audenreid fixed bail at $500.

The affidavit of Busch sets forth that the utterances complained of were made at the hearing before Maj. Frderick S. Strong of the inspector general's department of the United States army in this city last Wednesday. At this inquiry, it is alleged, Bowman swore that he had been offered $500 by Busch to secure the influence of the late Congressman Burk to get secret information from the quartermaster general's department at Washington.

WELL-BRED SNEAK THIEF HAS HONEYED WORDS FOR WOMEN

Discovered in House He Cleverly Entertains His Captors While They Await Arrival of Patrol Wagon—Almost Talks Himself Free.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Clarence Elapham Collier of Germantown, with the assistance of two maid servants, captured today a burly sneak thief.

About the identity of the prisoner mystery centers. With gallantry he submitted to capture by three women. He was faultlessly attired and his manner of speaking was polished. The police are greatly puzzled and they have not been helped any by the prisoner's confession that he perpetrated a daring robbery in Oak Lane less than a week ago. He gives the name of "Harry Ellis."

Mrs. Collier and the two maid servants were in the house, when coming down stairs Mrs. Collier saw the face of a man behind a bed. Seeing that he was discovered, a six-foot intruder drew himself out into the opening, and, bowing politely, said, "Beg pardon, madam."

Mrs. Collier pressed a button, summoning the servants, and asked the intruder what he was doing there.

"I came here to steal, madam," was the answer. "But please let me pass. I mean no harm to you."

By this time the servants had reinforced Mrs. Collier. Smiling and bowing as though in a drawing-room, the man pleaded with the women to allow him to go.

"I couldn't find it in my heart to harm you, and I'm sure you wish to do me no injury," he said.

Mrs. Collier and one of her maids were inclined to listen to the stranger, but the other servant denounced him as a thief and advised her mistress to have him arrested. "Ellis" smilingly sank into a chair and engaged his captors in raillery until the patrol wagon drove up to the door.

GREAT MERGER IS NEAR COMPLETION

Trolley and Electric Systems of Mahoning and Shenango Valleys Join.

THIRTY-TWO COMPANIES IN IT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 21.—The announcement is made that all details have been arranged for the consolidation of the street railway, gas and electric light interests of the Mahoning and Pennsylvania railway system and the Youngstown Consolidated Gas and Electric Company with the allied companies.

The merger is one of the largest that has ever taken place in this section of the country. It involves 32 corporations which will be merged into one under the name of the Mahoning and Shenango Railway and Light Company. The capital stock of the new company will be $10,000,000. It will be a Pennsylvania corporation. None of the 32 subsidiary companies will be dissolved, they remaining intact for the purpose of holding the various charters and franchises which they have.

The consolidation, it is said, controls 175 miles of street railway line and the gas and electric light privileges of Youngstown, New Castle, Sharon, South Sharon, Sharpsville, Struthers, Wheatland, Girard and Warren. The lines extend from Leavittsburg through Warren, Niles, Girard, Youngstown, Struthers, Lowellville, New Castle and Wampum on the one hand and from Youngstown through Hubbard, Sharon, Sharpsville on the other; with connections running from Hubbard to New Castle; from Sharon to South Sharon and Wheatland; from Youngstown to Struthers on the south side of the river; from Niles to Mineral Ridge together with the lines in Warren, Niles, Youngstown, New Castle and Sharon.

The only line of any importance that is not included is said to be the Youngstown, Park and Falls Street Railway Company, although it is understood that it is a matter of a short time when this will also become a part of the great system between Cleveland and Pittsburgh. The interests in this company will be many, but it is said that the dominant one will be the Belmont interest of New York. Murry Verner, with Myron T. Herrick and James Parmalee of Cleveland and the local stockholders in the Youngstown and Sharon properties will still hold their interests.

A meeting of the 32 companies interested will be held September 1, and by October 1 the new company will formally take charge of the system. It is said that R. N. Sanderson, who has or represents the greater part of the stock of the Youngstown and Sharon companies will be president of the concern, with the Hon. Randal Montgomery, president and of the Youngstown and Sharon Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, first vice president and general manager. It is also said that M. E. McCaskey, vice president of the Mahoning Valley system, will be second vice president and general superintendent.

MAKES RATE PLAN.

Allegheny Council of Royal Arcanum Suggests a Scheme of Charges to Equalize Conditions.

Allegheny council, No. 445, Royal Arcanum, has adopted the suggestion of its committee in regard to new rates. This suggestion will be forwarded to the supreme council and supreme representatives of the order.

The Allegheny plan provides for the adoption of what is known as "Option A" as the only rate and for the assessment of all members at their age of entry, not at their attained age.

It provides for charging against the benefit certificate of all members the difference between the amounts they have actually paid in, and the amounts they would have paid under Option A. An example, with a man who joined at 40 and is now 70 years of age, shows that he has actually paid $87 20 on $5,000, whereas under Option A he would have paid $1,459 34. The difference, $622 14 would be charged against his benefit certificate.

The Carlyle council's suggestion that only 33 per cent of the death benefit be paid in case of death within one year and 66 per cent in case of death within two years from entry, is indorsed.

INFERNAL MACHINE SENT TO A POLICE CAPTAIN

Third Deadly Explosive Instrument Is Received in New York City—Aim at Rich Jews Is Intended.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Sufficient guncotton to kill a man, arranged in an infernal machine and disguised as a gift cigar box, was received today by Precinct Police Captain Miles O'Reilly. This is the third deadly explosive instrument of similar construction sent through the New York mails in the last four days, the other two having been received last Friday by Jacob H. Schiff, the banker, and M. Guggenheim's Sons.

Capt. O'Reilly received a cigar box which in weight and every other detail misled him into taking it for a genuine present. Unusually heavy and tenacious nails fastening down the cover, however, caused a suspicion. When the box had been carefully opened at the end, matches were found glued to its inner surface in such a manner that they would be ignited on emery paper by the friction necessary to raise the lid.

The police found that the flare of one of the half-dozen matches would have caused the death of Capt. O'Reilly. A detective carried a tiny portion of the gunccotton and powder, which nearly filled the box, into the cellar, and there touched a match to it. The resulting explosion was heard on the upper floors of the police station.

A valuable clue to the men who sent the deadly infernal machines to Jacob A. Schiff and M. Guggenheim's Sons was found this afternoon, when a letter foretelling an attempt to assassinate rich Jews here was brought to light. This letter, breathing throughout a hatred of the wealthy, was received by Philip Cowen, publisher of the American Hebrew, last April. He read it hurriedly, saw that it was probably the work of a crank, and promptly turned it over to Police Commissioner McAdoo.

Since that time it has remained in the latter's office. It was not until today that Mr. Cowen, comparing the threats the note contained with the actual sending of the bombs, saw a connection between the information given by the anarchists and the first move in their campaign. The envelope bore the postmark of Station B, the date April 12, and informed its recipient that the writers, two Russians and one American, had resolved to wage war against the rich Jews here because of their influence and their wealth. As for himself, he was warned to take care of himself. No harm was to come to him, the letter declared, but he could not be too careful. At the bottom were the three signatures, all of which were hard to decipher.

"At the same time," said Mr. Cowen, "I paid little attention to the remarkable missive, anarchistic as it was. In fact it had well-nigh slipped my mind, when the sending of the bombs last week set me to thinking."

simistic and some of them openly predicted that the end would come tomorrow.

Value of Sakhalin.

The following statement from an authoritative source represents the Russian view of the military and strategic value of the island of Sakhalin:

"To appreciate its military value it must be borne in mind that the island, which is about 600 miles long, lies almost against the mainland, being separated from it by the Strait of Tartary, which in some places is only four miles wide. Physically it might almost be considered a part of the Asiatic continent. To allow Sakhalin to pass into the hands of Japan would be like America allowing Long Island or England allowing the Isle of Wight to pass to the possession of an ambitious foreign power. The danger from Sakhalin passing to Japan would indeed be greater for Russia than the loss of Long Island by America, as the length of Long Island is scarcely one-fifth that of Sakhalin.

"There is no doubt that whoever controls Sakhalin, besides being in a position to threaten to invade the Asiatic coast, would be in a position to absolutely prevent communication between the mainland and the Pacific through the sea of Japan. The island has an area of between 60,000 and 65,000 kilometers, and although its general shape is that of a fish, at certain points its width is only 15 miles. It is therefore peculiarly adapted for offensive and defensive purposes. It could easily be transformed into a formidable military and naval stronghold, from which expeditions might be launched and efficiently supported.

Has Small Population.

"Little use has thus far been made of the island. The population, including the natives, who belong to the Aino and Goltaks races and the exiles, most of whom after their terms of servitude become settlers, amounts altogether to only 35,000 souls, that is less than one to the square mile. Exploitation of the resources of the island has been hampered by the rigorous climate, lack of communication, as it is almost without roads, and by the immense and almost inaccessible forests.

"The development of its resources by Russia was anticipated as a consequence of the completion of the Trans-Siberian railway. Large profits were expected from its riches as it contains great quantities of coal, coal oil, timber, naphtha, iron and other minerals. Its chief resource, however, thus far has been its fisheries. Enormous shoals of fish, especially herrings and salmon, swarm in its waters. The herrings at certain times of the year are exhaustless. Besides being used for food, the oil is extracted and the fish pressed into large blocks, have been shipped to Japan for land fertilizer. The average number of herring taken annually amounts to 500,000,000."

This Russian authority denied that the Japanese were prevented from fishing in the waters of Sakhalin. He admitted that they were submitted to certain rules and restrictions, the object of which was to prevent the extermination of the fish. But that was all. He also said that along the coast of Sakhalin whales in considerable numbers are found. These have been the object of exploitation by American whale-catchers. Since the year 1865 he said that American firms had applied to the local government for permission to exploit the riches of the island, especially the coal mines.

Americans Explored Island.

"Among those whose names I remember," said he, "are the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Head & Co., Oliphant & Co., and Crawley & Co., but nothing much was done on account of the difficult internal conditions of Sakhalin resulting, as I said before, from climatic conditions and want of roads.

"The insignificant military forces which Russia had in the island," he concluded, "are another proof of our sincere belief in peace. We had not made the least preparations for military operations even offensive or defensive. The few thousand soldiers who were there were chiefly for the purpose of guarding the 5,500 convicts who, after having served their term of penal servitude, were allowed to enter a kind of local militia."

A memorial was presented to M. Witte and Baron De Rosen from the Russian Jews of Lawrence, Mass., today by Walter E. Rushforth. After extending greetings, the document continues thus:

Whereas, It has pleased his imperial highness, Nicholas, emperor of all the Russias, to delegate his excellency, M. Witte and Baron de Rosen to represent the fatherland at the peace conference with the imperial envoys of Japan; be it

Resolved, That we, Jewish residents of Lawrence, extend to them a brotherly welcome, and devoutly pray that success may follow their efforts looking for an honorable peace between the warring countries of Russia and Japan.

We are not unmindful of the powerful nation you represent, nor of the high and noble services you have rendered your country and humanity in the past. Though Americans, we have the natural love of all people for the land of their birth, and it is our earnest, our constant prayer and hope that the white dove of peace shall find an abiding place as the result of your deliberations, and that prosperity and happiness shall take the place of bloodshed, riot and discontent, not only at home, abroad, everywhere.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions, duly signed, be presented in person to their excellencies, M. Witte and Baron de Rosen, through our friend, Editor Bushforth of the Lawrence Journal.

The memorial is signed by about 500 Russian Jews.

HOSTS WELCOME POLISH PRELATE

Archbishop Symons' Countrymen Treat Him as a Priest and as Their Fellow Patriot.

HE TELLS PURPOSE OF VISIT

Ten thousand Polish Catholics turned out last night to welcome the Rt. Rev. Albinus Symon, former archbishop of Plock, Russian Poland, but exiled by the Russian government, having narrowly escaped banishment to Siberia. The Poles of the Pittsburgh Roman Catholic diocese know what Archbishop Symon has suffered because of his Polish patriotic attitude, and as they left Poland because of Russian and Prussian persecution they were doubly glad to see this distinguished prelate.

Archbishop Symon has come to America with the personal approval of Pope Pius X to see the conditions among the Poles. He has not come to learn whether Catholicism should be established in America, for that proposition the establishment of national bishoprics in the United States is, as he said last night, dead. The pope is opposed to it. Archbishop Symon is against it. American Catholics do not approve of it, and at any rate, it is opposed to the genius and traditions of the Roman Catholic church.

The archbishop arrived in Pittsburgh from Cleveland last evening at 7 o'clock over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad. He was met at the station by Father Caesar Tomaszewski, rector of St. Stanislaus church, and by the pastors of many other Polish congregations. The streets surrounding the station were packed with patriotic Poles who cheered the archbishop as he stepped into the carriage waiting for him.

Received by the Bishop.

The distinguished visitor was driven to Bishop Canevin's residence at Congress and Franklin streets. There he was welcomed by the bishop and the priests attached to the Epiphany church, showed Bishop Canevin his papers from the pope and received from the bishop the faculties of the diocese, that is, he was authorized to say mass and preach and hold all services in the Polish churches of the diocese.

The societies which were to escort their compatriot to St. Stanislaus church, had assembled in Liberty street, near the Union station, and thither the visitor was driven. He has been in America three months and has visited the large Polish congregations in Chicago, but he was surprised and touched when he saw the crowd that awaited his coming. The procession went out Penn avenue to Twenty-first and down the latter street to the house of the rector, which adjoins the church. Several policemen and members of St. Edward's society of St. Stanislaus church formed a square in front of the steps of the house and the archbishop ascended, between two rows of little girls, who were dressed in white and carried flowers. He stopped at the head of the stairs, waved his hand to the crowd, and then gave them his blessing. Then he retired to the house, where the children sang songs of greeting.

Why He Is Here.

With the little girls leading, the visitor descended the steps and went to the church, which was crowded. Father Gorzynski of McKeesport, delivered the speech of welcome. He said the Polish Catholics welcomed the archbishop in his dual capacity, as a priest direct from Rome, as a Pole who had suffered for the common faith and for his love of country. Archbishop Symon responded. He told his hearers of the pope's deep concern for them and compared them to priests because they were practically exiled from their native country, by Russian and Prussian persecution. The archbishop officiated at the benediction and gave to the people the papal blessing, especially authorized by the pope. Father A. Siewiec was the deacon and Father C. Kwapulinski of the Brereton avenue church, subdeacon.

Archbishop Symon speaks excellent English. As he told Bishop Canevin, he had long studied English, but had had small opportunity to speak the language until he visited America. The reporters asked him about his mission here.

"I am not sent by the holy father, as some of the papers have it," said the prelate, "but I come with the personal approval of the pope, in an unofficial capacity, to investigate the condition of my people.

Poles True to the Faith.

"I want to learn all about their religious life and the material, economic, social side of their life in this country. I have visited 115 Polish parishes and given the papal blessing to their congregations. I have seen the Polish Catholics in the cities. I have seen them in the rural districts, for instance, near St. Cloud, Minn., where there are eight parishes composed of farmers. I am greatly pleased, and have been much edified by what I have seen. I find the Poles in America true to their faith, energetic, industrious, fond of liberty, proud of their adopted country, the very best material out of which to make good American citizens."

Archbishop Symon was asked if there was any danger that Cahensly'sm would be revived. "It is dead," he said. "It would be an impossible thing to establish national bishops, with the divided jurisdiction which that would imply. It is contrary to the genius, the traditions, the principles of the Catholic church. I have talked with the bishops in this country and they think, as I think, that nothing more will be heard of that suggestion. These bishops think that it may be practicable, at some time or other, to have, in the dioceses where there are many Polish parishes, auxiliary bishops, who would be useful to the bishops of such dioceses because of their familiarity with the Polish spirit, but who would in all things be subject to the diocesan head.

May Be a Polish Bishop.

"The time may come, too, when there will be a Polish bishop or bishops. When a bishop dies the bishops of the archepiscopal see suggest to the holy father names of those priests whom they consider fit to be his successor, and the priests of the diocese also suggest names. It may then happen some day that some Polish priest, who is a good American citizen, zealous in the faith, distinguished as a preacher or noted as a man of great executive ability, may thus be selected and appointed by the holy father, but such a man will become a bishop, not because he is a Pole, but because he is a Catholic and is of the material from which bishops are made."

Archbishop Symon will stay about 10 days in the Pittsburgh diocese, visiting the Polish parishes. Today he will spend in St. Stanislaus parish, tomorrow he will devote to a visit to Everson, near Greensburg; Wednesday will be a busy day, for at 2 p. m. he will be at Mt. Pleasant, and at 7 p. m. at Mammoth.

The following Polish societies took part in the parade: St. Edward's Sharpshooters, No. 1; St. Anthony's, St. Joseph's, St. Stanislaus' and St. Casimir's, all of St. Stanislaus church; St. Edward's Sharpshooters No. 2, St. Michael's and Pulaski, all of the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, and St. Mary's and Sobieski of St. Mary's church.

A picturesque figure in the committee that received the archbishop was Count Jan M. Horodyski. Count Horodyski, who is head of the foreign department of the Metropolitan National bank, was clad in the national costume, including sword, worn by the Polish nobility on patriotic occasions. The dress is forbidden in Russian and Prussian Poland, and only in Austrian Poland can the nobility wear their ancient national garb.

Expect Important Arrest.

WASHINGTON, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Within the next few hours Washington county authorities expect, by the capture of Henry Dowden and his wife, to gain important additional facts in regard to the murder of Clair Hamilton at Meadowlands two weeks ago. Dowden and his wife, it has been ascertained, were witnesses of the murder but immediately afterward fled. Officers were on their trail tonight.

Succumbs to Paralysis.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Alexander Anderson, aged 84, died here this afternoon from paralysis. He was born in Mercer county and lived many years at Leesburg. His wife died four years ago, and he came here two years ago to live with his only surviving son, Curtis Anderson. He was a member of the Leesburg Presbyterian church.

MAYOR CONVERTS HIS OPPONENTS

Fender Agitators Give Up Mandamus Suit to Wait for Another Test.

BOARD OF TRADE DELAYS

Mayor Hays gained his point with the Pittsburgh board of trade last night. The directors determined that the threatened mandamus proceedings against Director Moore shall be withheld until after another fender test which it is said will take place on September 5, if Director Moore arrives in the city on or before that date, or unless the city administration again changes its mind.

The Pittsburgh board of trade has gained a considerable amount of advertising in the past few months by its declarations that the fender law would be enforced, and that both the city officials and the traction company would be prosecuted unless they enforced the law, which has been a statute of the city for 11 years, and which the present city administration has made no effort to put into effect during the two years and four months it has been in power. First the special committee of the board of trade made numerous calls upon Director Moore and then upon Mayor Hays, but received nothing but promises.

Farcical tests of fenders were held, at which safety devices of value are said to have been barred, and then the directors of the Pittsburgh board of trade, after making many threats, held a meeting and announced with a great flourish of trumpets that they were through dealing with the city officials, and would appeal to the courts as the last resort. It was given out officially that attorneys would be employed and a mandamus secured against Director Moore without delay.

At this stage in the proceedings the city officials began to take cognizance of the fender agitation, in two days Director Moore got out of the city and was hiding in the wilds of Michigan. Then representatives of the board of trade held interviews with Mayor Hays, and there was talk that action could not be brought against Director Moore until he chose to return to the city, although it was suggested that the mayor, as the official elected to enforce the laws of the city, could be mandamused.

Another Step Backward.

This view did not take with the fender agitators, and they decided that no action could be brought except against the mayor's subordinate, Director Moore. It was then decided to wait until Mr. Moore got through fishing and hunting before any steps were taken to stop the slaughter by fenderless street cars.

This it was until last night when the board of directors of the Pittsburgh board of trade took another step backward and decided that no legal proceedings whatever should take place until after another fender test, which may or may not be held on September 5.

The directors of the Pittsburgh board of trade have suddenly found so many excuses for delaying action as they formerly had for taking speed. The directors appeared anxious last night to split the whole responsibility for the present situation upon Councilman A. G. Boenigk, who has been acting as a sort of "go-between" from the board to the mayor.

"Mr. Boenigk is the man to talk," said Secretary Chauncey Lobingier. "See Mr. Boenigk," said President T. D. Harman, and he backed for the door.

"We will not go ahead until after September 5, when Mayor Hays secures the there will be another test of fenders," said Mr. Boenigk. "It will not be necessary for the board to appoint a committee to wait upon the mayor for I have seen him several times myself."

"Why don't you show the public that you mean business by going ahead and asking for a mandamus against the city officials to compel them to enforce the fender ordinance?" Mr. Boenigk was asked.

"The courts are closed now for the summer and if a mandamus were filed with a judge in chambers he would postpone a hearing until September," said Boenigk.

"If the court did postpone the hearing the public would know that you were in earnest, would it not?"

"Well, there is another thing to be taken into consideration," said Mr. Boenigk. "If we might ask for a mandamus the mayor or Director Moore would tell the court that they were doing all in their power to enforce the law and that they wanted to make another test of fenders before they selected one, and the court would rule us out."

Dr. Rhine Again Refused.

The last is a brand new excuse. Formerly the fender agitators claimed that they could easily show the court that the city officials had done absolutely nothing in the nearly three years in which they have been in office to enforce the fender ordinance. Now they take the position that the city authorities have not had a fair chance.

Councilman C. W. Helmold said last night that Dr. S. H. Rhine, the inventor of the Rhine fender, which Mr. Helmold thinks is a first-class device, had again been refused the privilege of equipping a car with his fender by the officials at the Homewood car barn, although Mayor Hays and President Callery had both promised Dr. Rhine that his fender should be given a test.

WASHINGTON REJOICES IN ITS FILTERED WATER

First Product of the New Filtration Plant Is Running Into the Capitol's Mains.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The first filtered water entered the mains of Washington today, from the $4,000,000 municipal plant at the head of North Capitol street. The process of starting the operation of the plant was begun at 10 o'clock today, that involved merely the turning of the water into the first 28 filtration beds, each having a capacity of 2,000,000 gallons.

The water from but one bed was turned into the District distributing system today, but the expectation is that the other beds will be available for use at the rate of at least one every other day until the number necessary to turn out pure water to the amount of the present consumption in the District is complete.

The average daily consumption in the District of Columbia now is 52,000,000 gallons a day, but the flow from each of the beds may be increased so as to meet any unusual demand. Twenty-one of the filtration beds are practically completed, while the eight others are in course of construction.

DEDICATES NEW COLLEGE.

Cardinal Gibbons Blesses Building and Community of Brookland, Near Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The new Dominican college of the Immaculate Conception, which has been some years under construction at Brookland, a suburb of this city, was dedicated here yesterday. Cardinal Gibbons presided at the ceremony, and performed the formal act of blessing the building and the community.

The building is of ancient Gothic style, is of light stone, and stands near the large group of buildings of the Catholic universities from which institution, however, it is entirely separate.

NEW CITY RULES WILL BE ADOPTED

Republican Committee Takes Preliminary Step and Will Act Finally August 31.

MORE ABOUT "YELLOW BOOK"

The first step toward the adoption of new rules for the government of the Republican party was last night taken by the city committee. Arrangements were made for a final meeting on August 31, at which the revised code will be adopted. The rules will be in harmony with those put in force by the county committee in July.

The meeting was presided over by Chairman M. G. Leslie. The gathering was for the purpose of presenting a resolution providing for the repeal of rule 8, which requires all the amendments to lie over 10 days before they can be adopted. The repealer will be adopted at the meeting ordered for the night of August 31, and then the committee will be free to adopt any amendments offered at that time.

Chairman Leslie has appointed John B. Barbour, Jr., F. C. Beinhauer and W. M. Benham to revise the party rules. The committee will hold two sessions today, and will tomorrow afternoon meet with the general rules committee, of which W. A. Magee, Jr., is chairman. At the conference tomorrow the new code will be agreed on.

Members Get Advance Copies.

The new rules will be printed at once and each member of the city committee will receive a copy five days prior to the gathering at which they are to be adopted. The meeting on August 31 will be held in common council chamber.

The committee on contests of the Republican county committee yesterday afternoon disposed of the contests at Clairton and in the First district of the Third ward of McKeesport. In the former J. A. Robinson was contesting the seat of H. G. Dougan, and Dougan was seated. In McKeesport Charles R. Petty was given the seat over J. F. McConnell.

Chairman Ford of the Republican county committee has appointed this committee on vacancies: Albert McGibney, Carrick; Daniel Hunnihan, East Pittsburgh; W. W. Cole, Allegheny; S. Y. McFarland, Sewickley; George T. Davis, Allegheny; Charles Frazee and M. de Rosa, Pittsburgh.

The Allegheny county delegates to the state Prohibition convention to be held in Williamsport will leave for that city today. Homer L. Castle says the delegation will favor the indorsement of William H. Berry, the Democratic nominee for state treasurer.

More About "Yellow Book."

The Allegheny firemen, who wrote to the Gazette exposing the passing of the "Yellow Book," has sent this paper another letter. He says:

I see by your paper the union is going to take up the fight of the city electricians. If we all stick together we will win. We should turn them down at city hall on pay day. I am going to refuse to "duff" up the cash on pay day. The boys should get their nerve together and when the "dough" is demanded, they should all say "no." Tell them we need the money. They cannot "fire" all of us. If anyone is "fired" the rest of us will stick together and take it to court. We can then see if Wyman can lower our wages, after councils have raised them. Wyman is only one, while we are many, so down with him and the "Yellow Book."

If Henry Hanneshagen wants to be elected mayor he had better not have anything to do with the "Yellow Book." The assessment is going for "lick" the county candidates. John A. Fairman is the man for the boys to help. I hope the boys will get together and show the people we are not in Russia and that we can be independent and turn down the "Yellow Book" on pay day.

AUTO OWNERS ARE NOT FORCED TO PAY CITY TAX

They Are Notified to Produce License Fees Next May—Discrimination Is Charged.

Discovery was made yesterday the reason the majority of the owners of automobiles have not paid their license tax for 1905 is due to the fact that they have been notified by the city treasurer's office to pay on or before the first of next May. Hundreds of postal cards have been sent out from the city treasurer's office but few auto owners have responded to these notices. The notices sent out were the usual printed cards mailed every year to owners of vehicles and they were used for automobiles instead of having special cards printed.

Chief Ordinance Officer Livingston said yesterday the auto tax was due the first of last March and new notices would have to be sent out before the collection of the tax could be enforced. He said the treasurer or his clerks had made a mistake.

The city ordinance officers have not made any arrests for failure of automobilists to pay the city tax, notwithstanding the threat that every one who did not pay the tax promptly would be prosecuted since the recent decision of the county court. A leniency seems to be permitted to the owners of automobiles the vehicle owners do not enjoy. The collection of the vehicle tax is rigidly enforced by the city authorities but the automobilists, who is assessed on the same basis, is not beurged very strenuously to pay his fee for running his machine on the streets of the city.

HEARINGS BEFORE TOOLE.

Head Men of Comus Club Raided by County Detectives to Be Heard September 5.

The county detective force early Sunday morning raided the Comus club in Homewood avenue, East End. R. C. Henry and James Bradberry were arrested, charged with running a gambling house.

There were 21 visitors in the place when the club was raided. The names were taken and the men will be used by the district attorney as witnesses if the case gets into the courts. The two principals will be given a hearing before Alderman S. J. Toole on September 5.

Superintendent Wallace of the police bureau excuses his inactivity by the explanation the club is chartered and his men cannot interfere. Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb says the county officers will raid every gambling house they can find.

DEFENDS WOOD FAMILY.

Harry G. Moore of McKeesport Says Goldie Mohr Wood Was Not Abused.

Harry G. Moore of McKeesport, who was for a number of years connected with the offices of the W. Dewees Wood mill in McKeesport, has just returned from New York, where he went to attend the funeral of the late Alan W. Wood. Mr. Moore denies the reports that Goldie Mohr Wood, the widow, was shabbily treated by members of the Wood family.

It is said that Mr. Moore's services in the offices and as a companion of W. Dewees Wood, a son of the deceased, in a trip around the world, were to be rewarded by Mr. Wood in his will. In the will drawn up last January, however, Mr. Moore's name does not figure.

WILL COMPLAIN TO GOVERNMENT

Local Paper Reports Persecution of Methodist Missionaries in Trieste, Austria.

SERVICES ARE NOT PERMITTED

Following the receipt of particulars alleging religious persecution of Methodist Episcopal missionaries in Trieste, Austria, the management of the Christian Advocate, a denominational paper published in Pittsburgh, is arranging to place the matter before the state department at Washington for investigation.

The Rev. Felice Dardi, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal mission which is located in an abandoned cemetery in Trieste was arrested, fined and threatened with imprisonment and denied the privilege of holding further religious services, because a local pastor recited the Lord's prayer at the grave of a woman who had died during the pastor's absence. Such are the facts as reported by the Rev. Mr. Dardi.

The full report, as received by the Christian Advocate, declares aside from the Roman Catholic church, other denominations must apply for state recognition before being permitted to conduct services. The Rev. Mr. Dardi states the Baptist and Methodist Episcopal missionaries are not recognized by the government and they are only permitted to hold services under direction of the police.

Last January the police of Trieste are said to have issued an order denying the Methodist Episcopal mission to hold further services; denied the Rev. Mr. Dardi the right to visit hospitals or public institutions of any kind, and declared henceforth the Methodist Episcopal pastor should not have the right to accompany the body of dead to cemeteries.

The mission was then closed and meetings held in secret. In July a woman member of the mission died at a time when the Rev. Dardi was out of the town. A regularly enrolled local pastor of the town of Trieste was appealed to to conduct the services, and, accompanying the corpse to the grave, recited the Lord's prayer over the remains.

He was arrested and tried, and fined 10 kronenthalers, each of which is equivalent to $1 11 of American money. Immediately upon the return of Pastor Dardi he is said to have been arrested, tried in secret, denied counsel and a defense, and pronounced "indirectly guilty." He was fined 50 kronenthalers, equivalent to $55 50, and threatened with imprisonment. The chapel was taken in charge by the police and Methodist services barred.

RAIDING IN BRADDOCK.

Negroes' Exclusive Club Gets a Shaking Up and Number of Charges Are Made.

The Braddock Civic club, conducted by the most exclusive negroes in Braddock, with a club house at 461 Sixth street, was raided early yesterday morning by Chief William Bennett and his entire force, aided by Constables W. J. Bennett and Samuel L. Spirts and County Detective Jeremiah Lutz. At the same time an alleged speakeasy at 201 Sixth street was also raided. Twenty-six were arrested at the two places.

At the hearing before Burgess Purcell yesterday three were discharged, two were turned over to Constable Bennett and the others were fined from $15 down to $5 and costs. Three were fined $15 and costs for gambling. Informations have been filed against the officers of the club, charging them with selling liquor illegally, selling liquor on Sunday and maintaining a gambling house. The club is conducted under a charter from the county courts, but it is alleged that any person could secure a membership card without further trouble than the payment of 50 cents. Cases of beer, jugs of whisky, playing cards and dice were found on the premises. Henry Jones, who conducted the alleged speakeasy at 201 Sixth street waived a hearing and was held for court.

OUTING FOR HEPTASOPHS.

Western Pennsylvania's 33 Conclaves Will Celebrate Order's Anniversary Tomorrow at Rock Point.

Western Pennsylvania's 33 conclaves of the Improved Order of Heptasophs will celebrate the 27th anniversary of the organization tomorrow at New Rock Point park.

Six special trains will be run to the park, four of these starting from Pittsburgh. One will be the Allegheny special, making no stop except at Allegheny, one running through from Union station and two making the other stops. One will start from Greensburg and one from Kittanning.

The athletic features of the day will be numerous, and handsome prizes will be given to the winners. The committee of arrangements includes 100 prominent members of the order. The officers of the committee are: C. A. Bingaman, chairman; N. F. Savage, vice chairman; H. P. Carpenter, secretary, and Henry Clements, treasurer.

Mary Bankony Missing for Two Weeks.

Mary Bankony is being sought for by her sister. The girl was employed as a domestic in Frankstown avenue up until two weeks ago, when she lost her position. She did not go to her home and her sister has heard no word of her since. The police were asked to search for her yesterday.

Our Annual Fur Sale Starts Off This Morning

August Prices 25 Per Cent Below October's

There's a great fur season before us—everything points to the greatest for years. One of the surest indications is the steadily advancing price on skins. As the fur-wearing season approaches an advance of 25 to 50 per cent prophesied by the London market—and the London market sets the world's prices on furs.

Our Furs were bought several months ago, were made-up in the dull season. Buying thus early we got best choice as well as best prices. That's why we can sell furs for less money now than later on. Later on, say in October, we will have to pay the same price as others and consequently will have to ask more money.

And when you buy a fur piece here, whether it be a $1,000.00 sable or an inexpensive squirrel, we are ready to stand back of it and guarantee satisfaction. The black art as applied to furs is unknown here.

The changes in the styles of small furs can't fail to interest you. So if you have a fur which you want altered to accord with fashion, best bring it in now, when we've plenty of time to attend to it.

Royal Furs—Russian Sable.

The finest sables come from darkest Russia, and as a general rule the crowned heads of that despotic country select first—the balance of these queenly furs going through regular commercial channels. You could get no better sables than we are showing were you to go to Russia personally.

Four-skin Muffs of fine Russian Sable, $300.00.

Five-skin Muffs of Russian Sable, $500.00.

Five-skin Muffs of Imperial Russian Sable, finest quality, beautifully marked, $600.00.

Scarf of Russian Sable, good quality skins, with clusters of three natural tails, $125.00.

Scarf of fine quality Russian Sable, five full skins being used, finished with six clusters and two natural paws and tail, $200.00.

Hudson Bay Sable Scarf, finished with two heads and six clusters, two natural paws and tail, $100.00.

Lynx—Never "Out."

Lynx is a fur that is never entirely out. A woman who owns a good lynx piece can wear it for years.

For people in mourning we are showing very handsome single pieces of fine gloss black lynx in several styles, also muffs to match. Lined with black peau de soie.

Lynx Scarfs, with or without tails, $22.00, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00 and $50.00.

Lynx Muffs, $30.00.

Mink—the Fur of the Season.

Rumor has it that Mink will be more wanted the coming winter than any other fur. Mink prices have already advanced, which means that later on we will have to ask considerable more money for the same furs, as mink will be hard to procure.

Large flat pillow Muff, beautifully striped, trimmed with edgings of fine ermine and ermine tails, $125.00.

Large Muff, seven skins used in making, perfect shade, $100.00.

Cape Collar of Persian lamb, finished with wide edging of mink, terminating in a long stole front of mink, lining of brocade satin, $65.00.

Cape Collar of mink and ermine, with double stole in front, one of ermine finished with tail and paws, the other of mink, finished in like fashion, $140.00.

Long Mink Stole with full lining of ermine, trimmed with ermine tails and finished at end with four natural mink tails and two paws, $300.00.

Natural Mink Scarfs, in cluster or plain tab style, at $40.00, $50.00, $55.00, $60.00, $65.00, $85.00 $100.00 and up to $150.00.

Chinchilla Furs.

Rivaling in softness and luxuriousness the crown sables are the furs of fine chinchilla. Much affected by young women.

Cape Collar of Chinchilla, terminating in a double flat front, $175.00.

Similar style, fine quality skins, trimmings and ornaments to match, $150.00.

Short Collarette, finished with double tab in front, $40.00.

Large Flat Pillow Muffs, twelve skins to each, $40.00, $60.00, $80.00, according to quality and fineness of skins.

Fox Pieces.

Cape Scarfs of fox in sable, Isabella and baum finish, $18.00, $22.50 and up to $45.00. These are in different lengths and widths.

Three-stripe baum fox pillow Muffs, $18.00.
Five-stripe Isabella fox pillow Muffs, $25.00.
Four-stripe sable fox Muffs, $20.00.

Jap. Mink Neckpieces and Muffs.

Highwaymen have been operating on the Monongahela river bridges without molestation by the police. This ought not to be possible. The people are paying for protection to person and property and should have it. When they cannot cross bridges in the heart of the city without being held up and robbed, they are not getting what they pay for.

There is the same old lesson in the fatal accident in Butte, Mont. That lesson is that no trolley road should cross a steam road at grade. No steam road should cross a highway at grade and there should be few such points of contact on interurban trolley roads. Engineers know how to avoid these dangers in every instance and the item of expense ought not to be allowed to stand in the way of applying the remedy.

Roy Knabenshue gave a successful exhibition of his new airship at New York the other day, having it under perfect control. It is on similar lines to the Baldwin machine, operated by Knabenshue at St. Louis last year, but appears to be much improved. It is, of course, a long step from a machine with which one man may navigate the atmosphere to a vehicle of commercial uses; but an airship of this sort is in itself valuable for other purposes. For taking observations on battlefields; for communication in the absence of more ordinary means; for amusement. The airship is now practical for these things.

Secretary Taft has not only made a good impression on the most civilized natives of the Philippines, but appears to have impressed the sultan of Sulu favorably. That potentate has been showing the greatest honors to the secretary and his party. He has also been smitten by the charms of Miss Roosevelt, but that is a mere incident of no political importance. That could not have happened had not the tact of Judge Taft opened the way for the ceremonies that brought them together. In short, Secretary Taft is displaying in the Philippines those qualities that make him a leader of men, there and elsewhere.

Among the important coming events in this city is the annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Editorial association. This body will be in the city September 26, 27 and 28. All of the state editors are familiar with Pittsburgh by reputation, many of them have been here on previous occasions, but few of them know Pittsburgh as they should know it and as we hope they will after this visit. The members of the association will be warmly welcomed and will be given an opportunity to form an intimate acquaintance with the world's greatest workshop, as well as with the literary and artistic life of one of the world's centers of culture.

Germany has apparently so far suppressed the Herero rebellion that it feels warranted in restoring civil government in southwest Africa. Lieut.-Gen. Trotha, military governor, has been instructed to surrender the reins to Herr von Lindequist, former consul general at Cape Town. Col. Leutwein, former governor, has resigned. These changes indicate that Germany has learned something. The Herero outbreak was in the nature of a protest against Leutwein's rule and the mistreatment he permitted his officers to inflict on the natives. The selection of Herr Lindequist, whose residence in Cape Town should have made him somewhat familiar with native peculiarities and ways, is a sort of promise of the adoption of a new policy in the southwest territory.

Lord Curzon's resignation as viceroy of India is clearly due to conflict of authority between himself and Gen. Lord Kitchener. Mr. Brodrick has upheld Kitchener, refusing the recall of an appointment asked by the viceroy and this has been followed by the absolute refusal of Lord Curzon to remain in office. The matter looks, at this distance, like another of the blunders of the secretary which have been bitterly complained against in England. In any case Lord Curzon took the only proper course open by resigning a post he could not satisfactorily fill without the full confidence of the government. The political effect of the quarrel will be noted with interest. Aside from this incident the opinion is growing that Prime Minister Balfour will conclude this fall that an appeal to the people and general election are timely.

Rules and Candidates.

At the meeting of the Republican city committee last evening, preliminary steps were taken that will enable the adoption on August 31 of new rules to conform to those of the county committee. There is little doubt the new plan will be adopted at the later date.

Much public satisfaction has resulted from the new county rules. It has been fully demonstrated they are fair to all persons interested. They prescribe certain qualifications for candidates and any person who meets these proper requirements may submit his name as a candidate. In the primaries all citizens may vote who have voted the Republican ticket at preceding state or national elections and they can have their votes counted directly for the candidates they prefer. Some lively contests will come out of this system, but they will do the party good, because they raise its tickets above the suspicion of private dictation—the sort of dictation that has figured in the preparation of the Democratic-Citizens county ticket this year. This ticket, as might be expected under the circumstances, is composed almost exclusively of political hacks. Not less significant of its character is the conspicuous refusal to renominate Register Stengel, who has attended to his public duties capably.

Negligence the Cause.

There are revelations in the official report on the Bennington disaster that explain the havoc wrought by the explosion. The boilers were not defective, but were overcharged to an extent that can never be known. There was negligence in the boiler room of the most inexcusable character and the report properly recommends the trial by court-martial of the one survivor who may have been responsible for the catastrophe.

The report of weak boilers never agreed with the extent of the injury done the ship. Descriptions of the scene told of men hurled high in the air after the upper decks were torn open and of other things not to be credited to steam at a pressure of no more than 100 pounds to the square inch. The investigation has discovered the fact that no one knows what pressure the boilers carried before one of them burst. Steam was shut off from the gauge and no attention paid to it. The safety valves which were supposed to be set at 140 pounds were probably rusted shut, for there is good reason to believe the pressure at the moment of explosion was much higher than the supposed limit.

It is some satisfaction to know these facts, for they exonerate the engineer officers whose duty it is to inspect and report on the machinery of our warships. At the same time a new alarm is created, that important details are entrusted to men who do not respond to the responsibilities placed on them. This case is not as bad as the other for one reason; it is possible for officers to more closely supervise the details of management, and there is no doubt they will do so after learning the conclusions of this report. The American navy has not more than its fair share of disasters, compared with the navies of Europe, but it ought to have less. Its men are better paid, better fed, and, in general, better treated. They ought to give better service in the management of machinery as, we believe, they have done and will do in gunnery.

False Charges Refuted.

As a Democratic paper the Post was tolerable, but as a pretending adviser of Republicans it is out of place and worse than useless. The Post is not capable of seeing straight from any Republican point of view. It is desirous of electing the Democratic candidate for state treasurer, and if it appealed for him as a Democrat it could be respected though not successful. When it appeals for him on any other plane it is a case of false pretense.

On the same principle the Post is not good authority on the record of J. Lee Plummer, Republican candidate for state treasurer. Mr. Plummer is a Republican and is a good Republican. That is sufficient to condemn him in the eyes of the Post, though it is a recommendation to every Republican voter. As the charges of the Post that Mr. Plummer, while chairman of the elections committee in 1903, killed all the ballot reform legislation, it is absolutely false. The elections committee reported out the ballot bill drafted by a special committee of the Republican state committee, it was enacted and is now the law of the state—a good law, as good as any ever proposed in Pennsylvania.

On the question of personal registration, also, the Post is very crooked. It is either unable to understand a fair statement or unable to tell the truth. There is no comparison between the adoption of a constitution, which is mandatory, and the adoption of amendments permitting a change if the people desire. These amendments simply opened the way for the adoption of personal registration in cities and the use of voting machines where desired. They were not mandatory. The vote for them, compared with the votes cast at the same election—not at the presidential election the year before—exhibited marked public indifference as to whether they passed or not. The failure to adopt legislation putting these two amendments in force has not involved the violation of any legislator's oath to support and defend the constitution, as the Post says, and the Post ought to know that much.

The Hon. J. Lee Plummer, chairman of the elections committee in 1903, did not oppose personal registration. Mr. Irwin, chairman of the same committee in 1905, did not oppose personal registration. In common with Messrs. Houck and Leshor and the 22 other members of the committee, he did not regard the measure as urgent, or of vital importance and there was no demand from the house at either of the two sessions to have the bill come from the committee. The Gazette urged consideration and adoption of a personal registration law to accompany the new ballot law quite as earnestly as the Post. It believes the law should have been passed and believes it will be passed at the next session. But The Gazette cannot agree with the Post that Mr. Plummer is responsible for the failure of two legislatures to pass this law. It knows it is quite the ordinary thing for bills to go over for a session or two before passing. It knows there has been no violation of the constitutional oath involved in this matter, and it respectfully reminds the wobbling Post that Republican legislatures commended these amendments to the voters—legislatures like the last two—and there is absolutely no foundation for the fuss that has been made on this subject. The amendments fixed no time when they were to go into effect and contain no mandate for enforcement—features of the Constitution of November 3, 1873, and there has been no general public demand for such legislation. An occasional Democratic howl is not a popular demand.

A Straw Blown Peaceward.

Peace or war is not wholly a matter of imperial preference. The czar and mikado may cause a rupture of negotiations at Portsmouth, but in the final instance the international bankers will have a voice in the matter. There is no doubt they favor an instant peace and will insist on an early termination of hostilities.

Early last spring when Japan went into the money market for an additional loan it was understood the proceeds would meet her requirements until next April, providing the war continued until that time. Last month she unexpectedly entered the market again and floated a loan of $150,000,000, which was taken by New York and London. It was shrewdly inferred this new loan was floated for the purpose of influencing public sentiment in Great Britain and the United States when it came to negotiating peace. That is, Japanese statesmen understood human nature well enough to know every additional holder of her bonds would mean an additional champion of her point of view. There is reason to believe, however, that bankers both in this country and Europe have given Japan to understand there will be no more money for war purposes. This is certainly the attitude of the financial world toward Russia. On the other hand, assurances have been given that there will be unlimited credit at the disposal of both countries for the development of their industries and restoring commercial relations with the rest of the world.

This being the case, the bond market is a better barometer of actual conditions at the Portsmouth conference than anything which may be obtained from the representatives of the envoys. In yesterday's bond market the Japanese issues were strong and higher and closed at the highest prices of the day. This is an unmistakable straw pointing in the direction of peace.

There is no use talking about reform within the party, says the Post. Not in the Democratic party, certainly not. The people of Pennsylvania decided years ago they could not trust the Democrats and every time they have had an opportunity to observe a Democrat in office the decision has been confirmed.

Highwaymen have recently been active on city bridges. Here is something worthy of Police Superintendent Wallace's attention—if he has any spare time or officers. Even the glass plant guards might be some protection if placed on the bridges.

Several of our contemporaries would derive benefit from a careful study of the constitution and a short course in legislative practice.

Lord Curzon's resignation will not help the tottering Balfour ministry and Mr. Brodrick has other troubles on his shoulders.

Magistrate Moke was probably wise in reserving one decision to consult a lawyer. His decision may be just and legal.

Candidate Berry may not be a good Democrat; he is certainly not good enough for a Republican to vote for.

Nicholas may imagine his assembly has squared the account with everybody, but he may soon be given another guess.

Kaiser Wilhelm must be falling into "innocuous desuetude." He hasn't been stirring the trouble broth for a week.

Roy Knabenshue has been flying high around New York, and is not extravagant, either. His is an airship way.

As a Democratic paper the Post has had some success. As an "independent" it is a rank failure.

While the sultan of Sulu may have the best of intentions his proposal will result in no contract.

J. Lee Plummer has no odds to ask of William H. Berry as good citizen or honest official.

Moke has nothing against the "mashers," it may be inferred from his actions.

Japan is as adept in picking up its playthings for adjournment as is Russia.

It may be peace or war today, but is more likely to be delay.

Finland gets no share in the assembly, but it has Helsingfors.

Color Line Must Be Preserved.

If that Pennsylvania cow that gives pink milk should infect the herds of Iowa, where the law requires oleomargarine to be colored pink, it might be necessary to change the law and require artificial butter to be stained yellow. The color line must and shall be preserved.—Philadelphia Record.

A PREACHMENT BY THE QUIET OBSERVER

A Haven for Women and Men Who Are Opposed to Kissing.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

In the eternal fitness of things there ought to be a place for everything, including men and women, cads and cranks, lovers and haters.

Another proof of the truth of this is John Alexander Dowie's ukase against kissing.

Whether he is himself unkissable, or is only doing this to close Mrs. Dowie's other eye, is not positively known. However, it is said that petulant, ill tempered, egotistical people are rarely, if ever, warmly affectionate, and John is all of these.

He tells it everywhere that his son, a big, husky, whiskered fellow, has never kissed a woman, nor been kissed by one since he was a baby, which was before his father had been inspired to preach and to prophesy against the fine art of kissing.

And they do say this big brute of a boy will stand up and look pleased while his father tells this on him. And then the father points to him as a type of the unkissed man.

Parents don't always know everything about their children. Did you tell your pap when you kissed a girl? He might have booted you if you had. And the chances are that you wouldn't have owned to the corn if you had been so forward and so fortunate.

What do you think of the Dowie boy, anyway, taking him as his father sees him?

* * *

Light and darkness are most happily mixed for us, and so are the sweet and bitter, the cold and the warm, the good and the bad, or in other words, the positive and the negative.

There is Dowie's little Zion not far from Chicago, and then there is Kentucky, about equally distant from Pittsburgh.

Here is a warm blast from Kentucky that will drown Dowie's blast to a whisper:

"Figure it out on a rose leaf and write with the brow of a lily that nowhere under the great blue dome is there a creature half so pretty as a Kentucky woman. She's prettier than an evening star in the shadow of a summer sunset, more inspiring than a thousand songs and as bewitching as a fawn tangled in the vines of a wilderness of roses. She's our hope, our romance, our vine and fig tree—the light which enables us to see a million miles beyond the north star!"

Under which king, Bezonia?

Much thanks to Dowie, all the same, for providing a haven of refuge for anti-kissing women and men, if any such men do really exist.

If we may take their word for it there are women who have conscientious scruples, or something, that causes them to refuse all such tokens of affection; yea, even to repel them with more or less vehemence, their vehemence growing with their years.

What joy will the Dowie ukase bring to the unkissable and non-kissing woman? It means to her a refuge from nasty men. Up yonder in Dowie's Zion her ears may never be jarred by the smack of the pre-nuptial kiss. She is not averse to the ante-nuptial smack, but how is she to get the one without first giving the other?

* * *

You may not like a crank such as Dowie, but somebody does, for he always has followers more or less numerous.

Dowie is an autocrat after the fashion of the czar. But what is the use of being an autocrat unless you can make good? He does, not only with his own people, but with the heathen round about him, even the money-lenders. Hardly more than a year ago he was dead broke and most people thought he had ran away to Australia with a barrel or two of money.

But he came back, settled with his creditors dollar for dollar, and business at Zion is booming. Dowie may be foolish along certain lines, but not along every line. He recognizes no laws but those made by himself, and his people receive him as prophet, priest and king, and obey him accordingly.

Along with the kissing edict went forth another to the effect that every member of Zion must annually bring at least one child to be baptized and entered as one of the faithful.

What will the ladies say to this, particularly the anti-kissers? These are notoriously opposed to children, or squalling brats, as they are pleased to term the little innocents.

In Dowieland you must be married in order that you may be kissed, and when married you must turn into the fold not less than one child annually.

So there you are, ye anti-kissers, betwixt the deep sea and the other fellow.

But don't worry; it takes two to make a bargain, also to kiss, so that you have as much to say in the matter as the nasty men.

Fortunately, all good, sweet women don't think men are nasty things, at least not all men. It is these women who save the race from extinction, make life pleasant and satisfy us that there is a heaven.

But should many of our women flock to Dowie's standard the men will break hot-footed for Kentucky.

* * *

After all, it is a question of decency and order, for there is ever a time for all things that are good and proper.

Those who offend the proprieties, much less outrage them, are not acting decently nor are they orderly and well behaved. And you know that good behavior, and proper, tends to good morals and to prosperity and happiness.

It pays to be decent and orderly in all things, even in things small and trivial, for common decency is largely a matter of habit. You know what is right and proper, and if you act accordingly you are decent, but if you don't do right, as you are given to know the right, you are both indecent and disorderly.

* * *

The greater demand of the times is for more decency and better order among the people. To secure these the children must be so taught and so disciplined that they will have acquired the habit of decency and order, and when they have grown up they will be decent and orderly in their walk and talk, consequently clean, wholesome and happy.

It is up to our schools to give us decency and orderly men and women. We can better afford to do without scholars than without decent people. But it so happens that decency and order not only harmonize with scholarship but add much to its value.

A little more attention to this most important phase of education will do much to elevate the morals and improve the character of our people.

Parents and the public generally should demand it, insist upon it, and they will get it all right.

TO PROVOKE A SMILE.

"Is anyone waiting on you?" finally asked the haughty saleslady, condescendingly at last to notice the shopping person.

"I'm afraid not," replied the latter. "My husband was—I left him outside—but I'm afraid he's become disgusted and gone home."—Philadelphia Press.

"What can I do for you, sir?" asked the drug clerk.

"Well," replied the man, "my room was full of rats last night, and I want"——

"Yes, sir," interrupted the bright clerk, "some for yourself or strychnine for them?"—Catholic Standard.

"Say, old man, can you keep a secret?"

"Yes."

"I need $20."

"You can depend on me. It is just as if you hadn't said a word."—La Plume.

WOMAN MISER'S ONLY FRIENDS WERE CATS

Police Find Her Dead With Felines Keeping Vigil—Nan Patterson Has Rabbit's Foot.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—A woman miser was found dead this morning in the little two-room apartment in which she has lived for the past 28 years, since the death of her husband, who was a director in the old Bull's Head bank. Her only friends, apparently, were seven or eight cats, which were keeping vigil over the body when it was found. Despite the fact that the woman, Mrs. Mary Tull, owned several tenement house which brought her in a large income, and she had many thousands of dollars in the bank, she did all her own work, and almost starved herself in an effort to lay up more money. She lived as one in the direst poverty, and many of the poor tenement dwellers by whom she was surrounded had better food and better clothes than had this rich woman. Her property will go to a niece, who came to the undertaking establishment this afternoon and claimed the body.

Last February Mrs. Tull was found in her rooms with a badly battered face, the result of a quarrel with an aged man who lives in the same house. The man was arrested at the time, but was not prosecuted. It was he who found her body this morning, but the coroner's investigation showed that the woman died of natural causes. When the police took possession of her apartment last February they discovered more than $5,000 concealed in various places about the rooms, and bank books that showed deposits of many thousands more.

Great Value of Tombs Rabbit's Foot.

Nan Patterson is threatened with more trouble. This time it is all on account of a rabbit's foot. John Jones, the Tombs caterer, announces that he has retained an attorney to sue the young woman for the return of the rabbit's foot, which he loaned her to bring her luck in her trial for the killing of "Caesar" Young. Now, that she is out of jail, Jones thinks she does not need it any longer. The rabbit's foot has been promised to Bertha Caliche, who is under indictment for murder, and she may need it. It has been carried by all the noted Tombs prisoners in recent years, including Roland B. Molineux. That it is not infallible is shown by the fact that Lawyer Albert T. Patrick had it in his pocket when he was tried and convicted for the murder of Millionaire Rice.

Father of Bowling Is Dead.

Another one of our fathers has run his course. Thomas Curtis, known as the "father of bowling in America," is dead at his home in Brooklyn. He was the first president of the American Bowling congress, and recognized as one of the chief promoters of the sport on this side of the Atlantic. Mr. Curtis took up the game of bowling in 1870, when it was far from the scientific sport it is today. He devised new alleys, pins and balls, and in 1880, in Paterson, N. J., he organized the Germania Bowling club, the first of its kind. Many clubs he organized during the few years following are still flourishing in Brooklyn. His funeral will occur tomorrow evening.

Yonkers Boy Still In Trance.

Charles Canepi, the 6-year-old boy who has lain in a trance ever since a serious attack of spinal meningitis, shows no signs of awakening. He has now been in the trance for 124 days. During all that time he has been watched by two trained nurses and all the physicians of Yonkers, who are deeply interested in the case. And yet he has never shown the least sign of awakening, and the only evidence that he has ever been at all conscious has been an occasional pressure of his mother's hand while she sat by his bedside. His only food is milk and the whites of eggs.

King of Bayswater Dethroned.

The last holdings of the "King of Bayswater" are to be offered for sale under the hammer to satisfy creditors to the amount of $40,000. Only a few years ago he owned all that section of Long Island, every summer cottage and every foot of land for miles around. Now he has only a little island left, an island that is mostly seaweed and sand, with a big summer hotel, occupied only by himself and wife. The wife holds considerable property around Islip, but he, as he says himself, "is all in." William Trist Bailey was the man known as the king of Bayswater. He is a brother-in-law of Lord Roberts, and came to America 50 years ago. It was his effort to boom that section of Long Island owned by him that caused his financial downfall.

CONGRESSMEN TELL OF GRAFT CRUSADE

Philadelphia Not the Only City Where It Is Believed to Be Prevalent.

By L. W. STRAYER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Four members of congress were coolly ensconced in a corner of the Willard grill room discussing a good dinner and, incidentally, topics of the times. They represented different sections of the country, but they were all called to Washington by business before the departments or the interests of constituents and met in the cafe by chance. There was the member from the wild west, whose district was located in the heart of the Rockies, and there was a southerner, whose district boasted the largest cotton production of the country. Then there was a member from New England and the fourth was a Philadelphia member. Conversation drifted from one thing to another, when the southerner said to the Quaker: "By the way, I see by the papers that a political insurrection has broken out in your town. The anti-graft crusade has struck you fellows in Pennsylvania, I understand, and threatens to overturn the great and powerful machine built up by the late Senator Quay. How about it?

"Yes," replied the Philadelphian reluctantly, "we have been having some excitement in our city. The people have become interested in political affairs and there is no use trying to conceal the fact that our organization has sustained a severe attack from its foes.

Has Abiding Faith in the People.

"Then, too, it is charged that some of the political leaders have profited by their political prominence and that there has been graft, in one form or another, in the management of our municipal affairs. Personally, I discount these charges very liberally. Just how much of truth and how much of fancy there is in them I do not know. But if there is anything wrong in our affairs I have an abiding faith that the people will right it and that no disgrace will attach to our city or our commonwealth." His auditors listened intently. They were evidently impressed by the calm manner in which the Philadelphian outlined the situation.

"I'm sorry to hear it, very sorry, indeed," said the southern member. "Graft is the curse of our free government and it threatens the foundations of the republic. It pains me to hear that your people in Pennsylvania have gotten themselves in the grasp of corrupt politicians who use their power for their personal ends."

"Yes it's a bad situation," broke in the westerner. "I do not mean to be offensive when I say that I never had a very high opinion of Pennsylvania politics, but, great snakes! I never had any idea it was as bad as that. You really need a housecleaning over there, old fellow, you do, indeed. It would do you good."

Yankee Expresses Sympathy.

"Political corruption is the rock which threatens our ship of state more than any other of the many hidden dangers," chirped in the Yankee. "But the people are becoming educated to this fact and therein lies our safety. They will not tolerate such conditions to exist. I venture to say that if it were possible for such things to occur in my state as have been exposed in Philadelphia, my people would be inexpressibly shocked. I truly hope you Pennsylvanians will be able to root out this corruption and purge yourselves before the public. You truly have my sympathy."

The Philadelphian was duly impressed with the condolences thus offered him. He said as much. He expressed his appreciation of the sympathy of his colleagues in warm terms.

"You are right, gentlemen," said he, "when you say that all form of graft and corruption should be rooted out. You are correct in assuming that if there is anything that seriously threatens the safety and stability of the republic, it is this very thing. And I think I can promise you that if the charges made respecting affairs in Philadelphia are sustained by the facts, there will be a political housecleaning. We do not tolerate corruption over there and our party leaders are not the men to soil their hands with graft.

Unworthy Men Everywhere.

"But I think you are all broad enough to admit that in the best political organization possible will be found unworthy men who would not hesitate at a dishonorable act. It is only natural that it should be so. There are bad men in every church organization, in every philanthropic movement, in fact, there are bad men everywhere, though, we have cause to be grateful that they are in a very great minority. And so they are in the minority, the large minority, in Philadelphia.

"By the way," said he, turning to the southern member, "how many votes did you poll last fall?" "Four thousand, three hundred and twenty-six," replied the southerner, with a touch of pride. "And your opponent, he got a few, didn't he?" "Oh, yes, a matter of 82." "And if I remember correctly, your district has a population close to 200,000." "It has 193,624 to be precise," was the reply.

"Well, according to the best estimates, a district with that population has between 38,000 and 35,000 voters in it. And yet there were but 4,326 votes cast. In other words, there were from 33,000 to 30,000 voters in your district disfranchised because they were negroes, and you knew they would vote the Republican ticket if you permitted them to exercise the right granted them by the Constitution.

Perhaps Charge Is True.

"You will forgive me for this pointed allusion to your district, but you see I did not resent your remarks about Philadelphia. It has been charged that dead men and fictitious men have been voted in Philadelphia, and my only fear is that possibly to some measure the charge is true. But I cannot see why you people down south should be so horrified at it when you openly refuse to let the negroes vote according to their constitutional rights."

The southern member was chewing hard at the end of his cigar when the Philadelphian turned to the western member and asked: "If it is not too personal, may I inquire what proportion of your constituents are Mormons?" "Well, about three-fifths of the voters are said to belong to the Mormon church. I guess that is right." "About three-fifths, eh? Then it is safe to assume that no man from your district could be elected to congress who did not have the indorsement of the Mormon hierarchy. We have been talking here frankly, so I am sure you will not be offended if I remind you of the lawless character of that church as shown by the disclosures of the Smoot inquiry."

Westerner Is Hit Hard.

"Of course, it is not your fault that you were sent to Washington through the agency of an organization that openly flaunts its illegal acts in the face of the country," and which has aroused the righteous condemnation of every patriot who loves his country and his home.

"Let me see," said the Philadelphian, turning to the New England man, "whatever became of that legislative inquiry up in your state? If I am not mistaken it involved charges of bribery against some very prominent people in connection with gas franchises or something of that sort." But the Yankee was busy paying his check and was prevented from answering by remembering an important engagement, now overdue.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Gossip Picked Up at Pittsburgh Hotels and Stations.

"Dan Cupid, Grand Grand." Little did Clerk John Clemmer realize that while this name was being written by the most famous love-slave of the world for the past thousands of years that the gentleman who was registering was at the same time speeding his golden arrows into John's own heart. That the new arrival at the Hotel Newell went over to the telephone exchange board and asked the pretty operator, Miss Maude Wallace, to give him a certain number. As Miss Wallace proceeded to get the call, only to find that there was no such number, the little god of love again practiced his archery, this time piercing her heart with his arrows. Then he vanished as by magic, and Mr. Clemmer and Miss Wallace were the only persons who knew at that moment that there had been something unusual. They kept the secret in their hearts.

But the best of secrets will "leak" in some way, and last evening it became known that Miss Wallace resigned a few days ago as operator at the Hotel Newell exchange because she has a more important mission in view—that of becoming the queen in a home where Mr. Glemmer will be delighted to spend his hours while off duty at the desk. The wedding of the popular clerk and his pretty fiancee will be solemnized next Monday in this city, as the information comes, and immediately thereafter they will leave for an eastern honeymoon trip. After their return they will live in Allegheny.

Mr. Glemmer, who has become popularly known to hundreds of guests of the Hotel Newell and to many people in the city simply as "John," has been clerking at the Newell for about a decade, and is known widely among the traveling men. His ever-pleasant greeting and wholesome cheer make his companionship sought by those who know him. Miss Wallace, whose home is in Lawrenceville, became an operator at the hotel almost a year ago, and the romance that has come about will be appreciated by the many friends of the accommodating clerk and pretty little operator who served them while they were at the hotel.

TAKES MR. FRANCIES FOR GOVERNOR

Allegheny Postmaster at Pythians' Gathering Is Mistaken for Mr. Pennypacker.

BIG MEETING OF COLORED MEN

Postmaster John Francies of Allegheny talks with a bit of a brogue and his looks are not much like those of Gov. Pennypacker, but despite his lack of these features of similarity, he was taken for his excellency himself at the opening of the supreme lodge of the colored Knights of Pythias of the world at Central Turner hall last night. Several thousand of the knights arrived in the city yesterday for their biennial session and Gov. Pennypacker promised to deliver the address of welcome. At the last moment he found it impossible to comply, and, calling up Postmaster Francies over the long-distance telephone, asked the eloquent Alleghenian to make the speech. So Mr. Francies was on hand early, brogue and all, with some of his rarest platitudes.

It happened the knights were late in arriving—they came from North and South America, Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia—and it was not surprising the meeting was not called to order until 10 o'clock last night. But the Allegheny postmaster did not have so far to travel, and, of course, he was on time. He waited patiently for the master of ceremonies to announce the overture.

Thought He Was Pennypacker.

"There's the governor," said a visiting knight.

Mr. Francies at the moment was chatting with several newspapermen in the corner and was instantly made the center of attention. The governor's representative was telling of his last visit to the hall. Johnny McTighe had been there and as the Sixth warders had turned out in goodly numbers, there had been strange and even exciting doings. It made a good story and the strangers in the hall soon decided the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania must have a very jovial chief magistrate. In the meantime they looked at their programs and read that Gov. Pennypacker would make the opening address. It was the simplest thing in the world for the people from such wide latitude and longitude to make the mistake of identity.

The time wore away slowly. Delegates and knights came in scattered delegations. Postmaster Francies told more stories, now grave, now gay, and occasionally he listened with respectful attention. At last the time arrived for the distinguished guests and speakers to go upon the platform. The brass band filed in and piped off a little ragtime. Then the man from Allegheny caught the spirit of the occasion, and his eyes began to brighten. It was then that representatives of the committee came forward. They were looking for the governor.

"This is his excellency," said some one.

"Mr. Governor, we feel honored to meet you," said Grand Chancellor C. O. Hawkins.

"Pleased. I'm sure," modestly answered Mr. Francies. If he had been a candidate for the gubernatorial chair, with a rehearsal in prospect, he could not have done better.

"You will kindly go forward upon the rostrum," said another sir knight, as the committee sparkered around the stage door.

"After you," said the pseudo-governor. His natural politeness rather got the better of him just then.

"How are you, postmaster," said the Rev. J. C. Taulton of Braddock, who happened to know Mr. Francies. The speaker mounted the stage, and many still were left in doubt as to whether he was the governor, until the master of ceremonies told the audience that it was the enterprising official of Uncle Sam from the North Side, who would deliver the address of welcome.

The joke warmed everybody up and they were warmed up still more by Mr. Francies' speech. He told of the struggles of the black race and complimented the negro on his rapid progress from bondage to the position where he could show his merit. He held up the name of Thaddeus Stevens as one which all Pennsylvania should honor. He continued:

Mayor Had a Substitute.

It was in Pennsylvania that the Declaration of Independence was written. It was in Pennsylvania that the old Liberty Bell heralded its adoption. It was in Pennsylvania on the battlefield of Gettysburg the last argument against universal freedom was disproved, and the baffled and beaten self-styled aristocracy lowered its haughty crest of pride to the eternal right.

Mayor Hays was to have welcomed the visitors to Pittsburgh, but he delegated Dr. W. D. Clinton to the task. Dr. Clinton immediately dubbed himself the mayor and launched forth in picturesque camp meeting oratory that was irresistible.

"I am glad," he shouted, "my heart is overflowing with gladness—to welcome you brethern from all over the round, whirling ball on which we live, to the great, prosperous city of Pittsburgh, where men dig coal, make iron—and steel for a living. Our parks are as fine as the finest, and you will not find therein slabs on which is pencilled the words, 'Negroes and dogs not admitted.' In our street cars the colored passenger can sit on any seat. We bid you welcome, and we are only sorry that we cannot give you the same corn hullabaloo which our Kentucky brothers are used to."

Reply to Francies.

The response to Mr. Francies was to have been delivered by E. D. Green, a colored member of the Illinois legislature, and in his absence S. A. T. Watkins of Chicago made the remarks. He called attention to the progress the colored people had made in the last 40 years, and declared his race could show its qualifications to legislate for the whites. He said the colored people who were elected to legislative offices had always filled them with credit, and would continue to move upward. He implored the whites not to treat his people as inferiors, but to allow every negro to stand justly on his merits.

While the speechmaking was going on the uniformed rank of the order was moving into its camp at Friendship park. This is called Camp John L. Jones in honor of the adjutant general of the order. Strict military discipline will be enforced, and on Thursday at Kenwood lawn there will be competitive drills of the various companies and divisions for $1,700 in prize money, which has been offered. The camp will be formally opened tonight. Louisville is likely to be selected for the next meeting place. The delegation from that city brings a certified check for $2,096 for prizes. Indianapolis wants the Pythian temple.

SEWICKLEY SINGER AT THE EXPOSITION

Miss Amanda Vierheller, Who Has Been Studying Abroad, Will Be Heard With Damrosch.

During the engagement of Walter Damrosch, who opens the Exposition next week, Miss Amanda Vierheller of Sewickley, who has been studying in Berlin for the past four years, will be heard on Friday night, September 1, which will be Wagnerian night. Before her departure for Germany she sang at the synagogue in this city. Miss Vierheller has just returned from Berlin, and has not appeared before the Pittsburgh public in a number of years.

Manager Fitzpatrick has leased naptha launches which will make hourly trips from the Expo wharf to points of interest on the rivers.

The "Creation," depicted vividly by electrical effects, will be one of the features at the Expo this year. The first scene will be a huge ball of fire, a volcanic crater burning in the distance. Following that comes the appearance of vegetable life, then the Garden of Eden and the City of Moab. It closes with a view of Noah's ark on Mt. Ararat.

BIG CROWDS AT LUNA.

Fine Weather and the Park Attractions Drew Thousands of People There Last Night.

With ideal weather for outside attractions, many people took the opportunity to see Luna park at its best, and it is estimated that fully 15,000 people passed through the gates at the park yesterday. The old and new attractions were running in full blast last night, and as the visitors were out to be amused, they all found what they were looking for.

Prof. Funaro's euphonium solos and Bert Brown's cornet solos, made a hit with the music-loving crowd, which filled the seats around the bandstand, where Duss and his band held a big crowd so long as the concert was going on. T. J. Smith, who is the tenor soloist at the park this week, won his audience by singing "My Sweetheart When a Boy." The crowd applauded till he began his encore, "Rosary." At its conclusion he had to sing "Violets" before the crowd would be satisfied.

The Four La Pearls, the specialty for this week and the new biograph pictures in the Electric theater, also drew big crowds to those centers, while the other amusements attracted large crowds.

MYSTERY ABOUT ILLNESS OF TWO

Man and Woman Found in the Streets of Allegheny—Can Tell Little of Themselves.

BOTH ARE TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

An ambulance from the Allegheny General hospital made two trips to the North Side Central station last night to take away a man and a woman who were found in the streets seriously ill. Neither was entirely conscious and neither could tell much as to their whereabouts during the past several days.

Charles H. Loeper, a pattermaker, aged 49, living at Montrose and Bradford avenues, Allegheny, was found in Craig street in a semi-conscious condition yesterday afternoon by Policeman McMahon. It was at first supposed the man was intoxicated and he was locked in Central police station until 8 o'clock last night. His condition became alarming and Dr. T. L. Hazzard was called in. He at once ordered the man's removal to the Allegheny General hospital where the physicians are somewhat puzzled as to the nature of his illness.

As Loeper was found in the toughest part of the First ward it was thought perhaps he had been slugged and robbed, but an examination showed no marks of violence. He was unable to speak and during the night remained in a state of semi-coma. The hospital physicians incline to the belief he was drugged.

A visit to the Loeper residence last night revealed the fact that since Saturday night the man's family has been anxiously searching for him. He left home early Saturday evening to go to the market house and as he is a man of steady habits his absence caused alarm. He has never before had any illness and never remained away from home. His condition is regarded as grave.

Margaret Henry, aged 21 years, staggered into Allegheny Central station shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday evening, supported by two strangers who said they had found her lying on a bench in West park. The woman was delirious and in a high fever. She was laid on a couch in the matron's department, and Dr. Hazzard again summoned. He sent her to the Allegheny General hospital, where it was learned she was suffering with typhoid fever.

From her fragmentary conversation it was learned she had been evicted from a boarding house in Arch street, where she had had a room for some time. Apparently she was ordered out of the house when she became sick, and refusing to go, was put out. This she says happened four days ago. When asked where she had spent the time since then she was unable to answer. The hospital physicians say the fever has been upon her perhaps for a week, and because of the exposure and lack of attention her condition is serious. The police were unable to locate the boarding house.

At the hospital she said she was an orphan and she had lost her father and her brother in the Harwick mine disaster in January, 1904.

TYLER WILL RUN.

A Candidate for Mayor on Anti-Graft Ticket.

Maj. Horatio Kelsey Tyler will be a candidate for mayor of Allegheny in the coming campaign on the "Anti-Graft" ticket.

Tyler, H. E. Safford, W. Scott, E. L. McKee, John Shaeffer and Frank Strain yesterday filed an affidavit claiming the exclusive right to use the name "Anti-Graft" party in Allegheny during the election of February, 1906. They purpose having a candidate for mayor, and last night Tyler declared he would be the man.

"The City Hall crowd, or rather Mayor Wyman, has patented so many party names that there was no other title left us but the one we chose. It's a good one, anyhow, for it expresses what we stand for. I have no intention of going into the Republican primaries and will run only in the general election. I was a candidate once before for mayor and they beat me by only 50 votes. At that time I was not as well known as now and I had a big political machine to fight. I feel confident of success, for the people of Allegheny are tired of politicians and grafters."

FALLS FROM THE ROOF.

Colored Man Eyading the Police Is Critically Injured.

Richard Johnson, colored, of Carpenters alley is in the Passavant hospital in a critical condition as the result of an effort to evade two policemen yesterday morning.

According to the police he had drawn a revolver on Sarah Clark, a colored woman, during a quarrel in the alley. The police located him at 1223 Clark street and, seeing them enter the house, he jumped out of a third story window to the roof of an adjoining building. He landed, but lost his balance, and fell 25 feet into the street. His skull was fractured and jaw broken.

INQUIRY BOARD MAKES REPORT

Court-Martial for Living Survivor Blamed for Bennington Explosion.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF PRESSURE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. — Secretary Bonaparte today received, and, as soon as he had himself read, made public, the proceedings and findings of the court of inquiry which investigated the explosion on the gunboat Bennington, at San Diego, Cal., on July 21. The findings were a complete surprise, for they at once set at rest the stories that had been circulated to the effect that the Bennington's boilers, and perhaps those of other naval vessels of the same age, were defective. As a matter of fact, the court found the explosion resulted from the closing of a valve which connected the exploding boiler with its steam-gage, so that the pressure on that boiler may have been several hundred pounds to the square inch when the accident occurred.

While praise was accorded to the officers and ship's company for their conduct during the harrowing scenes following the accident, the officer and men who are responsible, in the opinion of the court, are pointed out and court-martial proceedings suggested in the case of the only one of them surviving, Ensign Charles T. Wade.

The court consisted of Commodore Stevenson (retired), Capt. E. J. Moore and Capt. Thomas S. Phelps. The finding recites the arrival of the Bennington at San Diego and says:

About 9:20, on July 21, after both boilers had been filled and the furnaces started, it was observed that the steam-gage on boiler "B" showed about five pounds of steam pressure, and at this time Oiler Frank De Courtani, acting as water tender, directed D. N. Holland, fireman, second class, to close the air cock on boiler "B"; that the said Holland climbed up and closed a valve, and almost immediately the steam-gage on boiler "B" failed to register any pressure, that this was apparently not noticed by either the water tender or the fireman, and no attention appears to have been paid to the fact that the steam-gage failed to register, but they kept on working the fires and firing heavily that when the steam-gage on boiler "A" showed 135 pounds there was no pressure showing on the steam-gage on boiler "B."

The finding then goes on to state that about 10:30 o'clock a small leak was found in boiler B. A request had been sent to the boilermaker to come and attend to the leak when the explosion occurred. All that happened after the explosion is described at considerable length.

"The court is also of the opinion," it continues, "that D. N. Holland, fireman, second class, United States navy, who was the fireman on duty firing boiler B, at, and before, the time of the explosion, did, by mistake, shut off the steam valve connecting boiler B with its steam-gage, instead of the air cock; that Frank De Courtani, oiler, acting water tender, did fail to observe that his steam-gage was not registering; that E. B. Ferguson, chief machinist's mate, did fail to cause this steam-gage to be connected with the boiler. The said D. N. Holland, fireman, second class, United States navy; Frank De Courtani, oiler, United States navy, and E. B. Ferguson, chief machinist's mate, United States navy, are now all dead, and no further proceedings can be taken against them. The court is of the further opinion that further proceedings should be had in the case of Ensign Charles T. Wade, who was in charge of the engineering department of the United States ship Bennington at the time of the explosion, and since October 22, 1904, in this that he, the said Ensign, Charles T. Wade, United States navy, did fail in his own person to see that the safety valve on boiler B was overhauled at the proper time and kept in good working order."

O'HARA CALLS BLUFF, PRODUCING THE CASH

Prisoner Whom Court Wanted to Hold Has $40 Hidden in His Clothes.

Frank O'Hara of Zanesville worked a clever trick on Justice Saints of Sharpsburg, the Sharpsburg police and the county detectives yesterday afternoon that not only furnished him great satisfaction but also gained him his liberty, at least for a time.

O'Hara had been rooming at the home of Mrs. Anna Teets in Harmerville for several months, and during his stay is said to have established a credit with her that brought him a loan of $50 and encouraged him to ask her to cash a $100 check. After alleged fruitless attempts to secure her money, Mrs. Teets made information against O'Hara before Justice Saints, charging false pretense.

In the meanwhile the county detectives had been looking for O'Hara for several weeks, suspecting him of being implicated in several robberies in the neighborhood of Hobcken. When they heard of his arrest they communicated with the Sharpsburgh authorities, requesting that O'Hara be held until they could gather the necessary evidence against him.

O'Hara was searched when arrested, and nothing was found on his person. He was given a hearing by Justice Saints and fined $25 and costs, with the privilege of spending 30 days in the workhouse. O'Hara smiled pleasantly and, turning up the lapel of his coat took out a pin and placing his hand in the lining, pulled out a $20 gold certificate and handed it to the judge.

Justice Saints called the attention of the prisoner to the fact that the fine was $25 with costs, whereupon O'Hara humbly begged the pardon of the court and, opening his necktie, pulled out another $20 gold certificate and, graciously asking the judge to keep the change, disappeared out the door.

Tramp Dog Bites Two Children.

Anna and Martha Mulveyhill, aged 5 and 7 years, of 908 Haldane street, Greenfield, were attacked by a large dog near their home yesterday afternoon and badly bitten. The children were playing with the dog, which was of the tramp variety, when it suddenly turned on them. Their wounds were cauterized by a physician and the dog was shot by a citizen.

Fight Will Still Drag On.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 21.—Judge Lanning, in the United States district court today, denied the application of James Smith, Jr., receiver of the United States Shipbuilding Company, to have the company's charter dissolved. Judge Lanning decided he was without jurisdiction. Application will now be made to the state courts.

COLORED CLUB AGAIN RAIDED

County Detectives Close Up Union League Organization on Hill for Second Time.

FIND NEARLY 300 VISITORS

County Detectives Frank Sonnefeld, John W. Reed and George Murren and Constable C. W. Dittrich of Alderman A. G. Sharra's office raided the Union League club at No. 712 Wylie avenue at 10:15 o'clock last night, where they say they found 200 men and 20 women drinking and 50 men crowded about a crap table and eagerly watching the developments of the rolling ivories.

The detectives allowed the visitors to leave, but placed "Kid" Bates and Marshall Ruff under arrest and at a late hour last night were making a diligent search for George Potter for whom they also had a warrant. All three are colored men and are charged with running a gambling house, selling liquor without a license, and selling liquor on Sunday. The same club was raided several weeks ago and the same men placed under arrest and held for court on the same charges by Alderman S. J. Toole.

A charter was found hanging on the walls of the clubroom which was made out to the Sixth Ward Union League club and signed by several well known white men among the signatures being that of former Superintendent of Police John McTighe. How the proprietors of the place secured this charter is a mystery to the detectives.

While being taken to jail "Kid" Bates is said to have boasted to the officers that he would continue to run the place regardless of the number of times it might be raided or how often he would be arrested, and the club would continue to do business until he was firmly lodged in the workhouse.

The county detectives say they visited the place last Sunday night and remained in the rooms for 20 minutes. At this time they say they counted 32 colored men around the crap table while 20 men and 4 women were drinking. The two men arrested were committed to jail in default of $1,000 bail each by Alderman A. G. Sharra immediately after the raid.

SHOOTS SCARED YOUTH WHO FEARED ARREST

Constable Foster Hits Lad Who Was Wanted for Theft of Harness Rings.

George Irwin, aged 19, whose home is in New Sheffield, Beaver county, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded by Constable George Foster, chief of police of Carnegie, about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The shooting took place on the Steubenville pike, near Gayley postoffice, a short distance from Carnegie. Foster had a warrant for Irwin, in which he was charged by John P. Scott, a farmer living near Gayley, with the larceny of several white celluloid harness rings. Irwin was in the employ of Fred C. Geyser, a contractor, as a driver.

Foster found Irwin working on the Steubenville pike near Gayley, and placed him under arrest as he sat on the seat of his wagon. As soon as Irwin realized he was under arrest he jumped to the ground and started to run. As he ran Foster commanded "halt," and then, according to witnesses, fired twice. The second bullet struck Irwin in the hip, near the base of the spine, and lodged inside the skin at the left side of the abdomen.

When Irwin fell, Foster secured a buggy and placing Irwin in it, drove to Carnegie, where the wounded man was placed on a Panhandle train and brought to Mercy hospital. Dr. R. L. Walker, Jr., of Carnegie, temporarily dressed the wound and extracted the 38-caliber bullet before the train started.

NEW BOARD OF TRADE IN TWENTY-FIRST WARD

Lincoln Avenue Residents Form Permanent Organization to Secure Reforms.

Boards of trade and district organizations in all sections of the city are springing up to secure needed public improvements which have long been neglected by the city administration. The Lincoln District Board of Trade was born last night in the Twenty-first ward. It is the outgrowth of an indignation mass meeting of residents of the Lincoln and Lemington avenue districts to protest against the poor car service, lack of fire protection, the delay in the construction of the Lincoln avenue bridge over the Beechwood boulevard and the failure to get street improvements.

The residents of the locality first organized under the name of the Lemington District Improvement association, and held their first regular meeting last night at the Lemington schoolhouse, but the name was broadened to take in the Lincoln avenue district by adopting the new appellation.

The meeting was largely attended, and a marked degree of interest manifested by those present, who included some of the most prominent residents of the ward. Constitution and by-laws were adopted, and it was decided to procure a charter. The following officers were elected:

President, Charles Ross; vice president, Harry Double; treasurer, Dr. G. C. Anderson; recording secretary, Frank R. Forrest; corresponding secretary, Arnold Hodgkinson; directors, J. G. Wilson, J. S. Green, G. G. Hoovler, William Heck, George Gardner, Thomas Hartman, Frank Reid, D. J. McKelvey, H. B. Ward and Howard Lutton.

Standing committees on membership, municipal affairs, street railways and general transportation were appointed.

NOTIFIES HIS RELATIVE.

Calls Him and Physician by Announcement by Mail of Murder and Suicide.

BROCKTON, MASS., Aug. 21.—Letters received today from James W. Crawford, a shoemaker, saying that he intended to murder his wife and then kill himself, brought a physician and a nephew of Crawford to the man's house and revealed the fact that the threat had been fulfilled. With a razor and a butcher knife he had almost cut off his wife's head and then had committed suicide by cutting his own throat with the razor.

A note was found written by Crawford saying that it was a case of murder and suicide because he was jealous. Crawford was 53 years old. His wife was of the same age.

HOW SOUTH SIDE POLICE DECIDE ON INSANITY

George Gosshorn of No. 729 Brownsville avenue was arrested yesterday afternoon. His offense consisted in a desire to talk with every person he met. Italians Who Escaped from Prison in Italy Years Ago, Found in Greensburg—One Again Escapes.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Aug. 21.—Detective James Bova of New York left Greensburg for New York this morning with Angelo Salamando, a Corsican, who escaped from a prison at Genoa, Italy, while serving a life sentence for murder. Salamando is over 70 years old and had been working at the Crabtree works of the Jamestown Coal and Coke Company for four years. Salamando and Pietru Guiso were implicated in a bitter feud in Italy, which ended in the murder of three men.

Both were convicted of murder and were sent to prison for life. Six years ago both escaped and after two years wandering about Europe, came to America. The Italian government has been tracking the men ever since. Through the efforts of the Italian consulate at New York the men were located at Crabtree, and Detective Bova came on to make the arrests. Salamando gave up without a struggle when arrested at his shanty.

Guiso was at work in the mine, and fellow countrymen who were familiar with the circumstances notified him of the detective's arrival. While Bova stood at the mine shaft Guiso escaped through the air shaft. Old Salamando is in the last stages of consumption and says that he will die before Italy is reached.

FUN AT VALLEY CAMP.

Famous Old Resort Is Enlivened by Pittsburgh Entertainers in Evening Concerts.

VALLEY CAMP, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The minstrel entertainment given Saturday evening at Valley Camp, Pa., under the auspices of the Mask and Wig club of Pittsburgh, was undoubtedly the most successful event ever witnessed at the Camp. A fashionable gathering was in evidence and the receipts, which were for the benefit of the athletic fund, were satisfying. The entertainment was most excellent. The comedy and singing in the first part called forth the heartiest applause. In the olio Jules Cross as the "Ebony King," was decidedly clever. Master Charles Bennett, the wonderful boy tenor, elicited much applause. His voice is marvelous and the enunciation very distinct. A musical skit, "Boy Wanted," by Todd and Lane, was one of the features of the entertainment. Messrs. Connelly and Gross, as "The German Senators," called forth roars of laughter and their efforts were appreciated. The musical pogram was exceptionally good.

Tomorrow night a Scotch concert will be given at the Camp, and from the interest being manifested, a large attendance is anticipated. The concert will be given under the direction of Mr. M. L. McIntosh.

Boy Jumps from Rapidly Moving Car and at Risk of His Life Stops Runaway Horse—No One Injured.

ALTOONA, PA., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—By a daring feat A. B. Shaw, aged 19, saved two women from injury or death this afternoon. A street car on which he was riding frightened a horse drawing a buggy in which two women were seated. The animal started down a steep hill leading to Lakemont park, parallel with the car.

The horse was going at a rapid rate when Shaw leaped from the moving car on to the horse's back, at a point where the road and tracks are close together. The momentum of Shaw's body threw the horse, which struggled desperately, but the young man coolly held its head to the ground until the women had alighted.

Turtle Creek Man Threatens Suicide and Evades Would-Be Rescuer.

John H. Johnson, aged 55, a flagman on the Union railroad, committed suicide yesterday afternoon near his home in Monroeville avenue, Turtle Creek, by drinking two ounces of phenol. Johnson's right hand was taken off in a railroad accident several years ago and after suffering three futile operations and a chronic illness, he became despondent. Yesterday afternoon he notified the editor of the local paper in Turtle Creek and Dr. A. L. Trevaskis, who lives opposite, he was going to commit suicide and they notified Officer Lew Trax. The latter went in search of Johnson and as he saw the officer approaching he dashed into a cluster of bushes and drank the poison. He died a few moments after. He is survived by his wife, one son and three daughters.

The body of an unknown man, aged about 50, was found floating in the Monongahela river under the Wabash oridge about 7 o'clock last night and taken to the morgue. The body appeared to have been in the water about 10 days. On his person was found a rosary, two religious pictures, and a piece of brown paper. On the back of one of the pictures was written: "Presented to J. V. Gerold, Easter, 1905," while on the brown paper was written the address: "James McEwan, 434 Indiana street, Punxsutawney." The body was clothed in dark blue trousers having a gray stripe, while he wore a white and blue striped shirt.

Joseph S. Key, aged 26 and single of Ambridge, fell 40 feet from a scaffold at the American Bridge works in that place at 5 o'clock last evening and fractured his skull and sustained internal injuries. The remains were shipped to Bolivar, Pa., where he is survived by a wife.

The Death Roll.

J. C. Hyde.

A telegram from Butler last night announced the death of J. Chadwick Hyde, former superintendent of the Pittsburgh division of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railway, who is well-known here and is widely known among railroad men. His death came suddenly while he was seated on the porch of his home chatting with Mrs. Hyde. He had been in ill health for a couple of years past, but it was only at the earnest solicitation of his friends that he relinquished his duties last winter and went to New Mexico in the hope of regaining his strength. He returned to this vicinity a few weeks ago little better for his living in the southwest, and he had intended to go to California to live.

Mr. Hyde was born in 1856 and entered the railway service as a boy of 15 years on the Philadelphia & Erie road, in which position he remained from 1871 to 1880. He served as train dispatcher for the Buffalo, New York & Philadelphia road for the next three years at Buffalo and then served five years as chief dispatcher of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railway at Rochester. Then he went to Marquette, Mich., as chief dispatcher of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, serving in this capacity from 1888 to 1892, and serving the next five years as chief dispatcher of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road at Duluth, Minn. In 1895 and 1896 he was chief dispatcher of the Great Northern railway at Everett, Wash., returning to the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh company in the latter year as chief dispatcher and superintendent. He was a member of the Baden Lutheran church. He is survived by his widow, six children: Mrs. O. W. Prince of Ambridge, Mrs. W. W. Bruff, Sewickley; Richard E. of Cobourg, Canada; George B. PETITION FOR DIVORCE ON UNUSUAL GROUNDS

Woman Asserts She Was Married Against Her Will When 15 Years of Age—Wants Separation.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Aug. 21.—An unusual divorce suit was filed today by Lulu C. Meeks, alias Lulu C. Loar, against Abraham Loar. Both are residents of Amwell township. The woman alleges that on January 6, 1904, an alleged ceremony uniting her in marriage with Loar was performed by a local justice of the peace. She asserts this ceremony was procured by fraud and coercion; that she was but 15 years of age and was threatened with imprisonment in a reform school if she did not marry Loar.

The woman states that when the ceremony was performed Loar answered the questions of the justice in the affirmative, but that she did not open her mouth. She says she never considered the marriage binding and in October, 1904, she was married in Wheeling to Sanford Meeks. She claims she never lived with Loar.

Last winter she and Meeks were arrested at Wheeling charged with bigamy, but the cases against them were settled when the facts were ascertained. She says now she wants a legal separation from Loar in order she may not be troubled by any steps that Loar might take in the future.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—A record-breaking Monday crowd, 10,000, saw the champion Giants wallop the Pittsburgh Pirates this afternoon at the Polo grounds, 10 to 2. Near the Pittsburgh bench in the grand stand was a bunch of partisans from the Smoky City, but they did not have much chance to give vent to any joyful feelings, as the McGrawites went after Phillippe at the start, and, aided by loose playing, galloped away with the game. Matthewson pitched for New York and he did it well.

Both pitchers were hit hard at times, but the Giants had far the best of it on their timely extra base hits. Matthewson, who has been a stumbling block to the visitors all this season, was given the best of support in the field. Phillippe, however, was badly treated in this respect. Peitz's playing being away off on balls thrown to the plate to head off runners.

The game was marked by a steal home by Devlin in the sixth inning and the putting off the field of McGraw, the Giant's manager, by Umpire Johnstone.

The crowd went wild with enthusiasm when Devlin, who was on third, started home while Phillippe was winding up his arm preparatory to throwing the ball.

McGraw Sent from Field.

The Deacon was so taken by surprise that he did not throw until the runner was almost at the plate, and it was too late for the catcher to put the ball on him.

In the last half of the seventh the Giants were hitting Phillippe right and left, good fielding being the only thing that stopped numerous runs, when McGraw audibly commented on the slowness of the Pirates' pitchers. This so angered Umpire Johnstone that he ordered the little manager off the field.

In every inning but two the Giants scored, while the Pittsburgh men scored only in two. The fielders for both teams did good work. In the first inning, as usual, Clymer hit safely, beating out an infield hit over Mathewson's head. Clarke sacrificed. Devlin to McGann. A wild pitch put Clymer on third. Leach got a base on balls, Wagner following with a grounder near second, of which Dahlen made a beautiful stop, touching the base, forcing Leach and doubling up Wagner at first.

In the second and third innings the visitors drew blanks. Wagner opened the fourth inning with a long single to left. Howard was put out on strikes and Wagner was caught stealing second. Brain, the next batter, tapped a home run into the left field bleachers, the first of the year. Ritchey closed the inning by flying out to Donlin.

The Pirates' last run was scored in the sixth inning. Clarke was the recipient of a gift from Matty. Leach followed with a single past first and Clarke moved to third. Wagner forced Leach, Dahlen to Strang. Clarke coming home on the out. After this not a Pirate got beyond second base.

Giants Wallop the Ball.

The Giants got their first run in the second inning. They followed this up with four more in the third. After Browne struck out on a foul tip, Donlin reached third on Clarke's muff of the latter's fly. Clarke had to run back some distance for the ball. McGann got a base on balls. Mertes bunted to Phillippe, who threw home to get Donlin, but Peitz muffed the ball and Donlin was safe. Then Dahlen lined out a vicious drive to left field for three bases and both McGann and Sandow romped home. Dahlen crossed the plate a minute later on Devlin's fly to Clymer. Strang went out, Ritchey to Howard, closing the inning.

This big lead so early in the game was very disheartening to the friends of the Pirates. In the fifth inning Donlin scored another run. He went to second on Wagner's wild throw of his rap to first. McGann's sacrifice put him on third and he scored on Mertes' out.

Devlin slammed a hot one past Brain for a base and reached second on Strang's sacrifice. After stealing third Devlin electrified the crowd by stealing home.

The seventh inning was the most exciting of the game. Browne beat out an infield hit and stole second. Donlin beat out another hit in the same place and duplicated Browne's steal of second. McGann smashed a hot one in the direction of Brain, who threw home to get Browne at the plate. The latter was easily trapped after the ball had been passed to Peitz, then to Brain and back to Peitz again, but Peitz dropped the ball as he touched Browne and the runner scored. Donlin went to third and McGann to second during the mix-up.

Clymer Is Retired.

A wild pitch scored Donlin and put McGann on third. Mertes flied out to Hillebrand, who replaced Clymer in right field. Hillebrand made a quick return of the ball to the plate and easily got McGann. Dahlen singled to left field.

At this juncture McGraw, who had been annoying Brain for some time, was put off the field by Umpire Johnstone for calling the latter's attention to the slowness of Phillippe in the box. Devlin forced Dahlen, making the third out.

Strang scored the tenth and last run for the Giants in the eighth inning on his triple and a long fly by Mathewson to Leach. The score:

One Run Wins for Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Two hits, the second a scratch, an infield out and a passed ball gave Boston the only run made in today's game. Steps by Abbattachio, Tenney's first base play and a one-hand catch by Arndt were the noteworthy features. Score:

DETROIT, Aug. 21.—Both teams were shut out in the double-header here this afternoon. Boston won the opener because of the inability of the locals to bunch hits off Tannehill, not a runner reaching second base. Collins' handling of bunts and short hits was the best ever seen here.

Kitson returned the compliment in the other game, pitching splendidly, while Detroit hit Dineen at the right time to win. Schaefer was the star at batting and fielding. Attendance 4,000. Scores:

BRADDOCK WINS BY ONE RUN

BILL DELEHANTY
of the Niles Team.

W. THOMAS,

Billy Phyle's Wild Throw Gives McKim's Team Score and Youngstown Loses.

A wild throw in the eighth inning by Capt. Billy Phyle gave Braddock the only run of a pitchers' battle yesterday at Braddock, Armstrong, for Youngstown, losing to "Southpaw" Sammy Smith. Both pitchers were using all they had in stock, and the misplay was the only one made by the Hoganites, but it was their undoing.

The ball happened in the eighth when Sandherr singled, and Brisbine bunted. Brisbine is a fast runner, and he beat out the dump. Sweeney struck out and then Ralston laid down another bunt. Phyle came in and got it and then made the play at second. His throw, however, went wide of the bag, and rolled to the gate in right field, Sandherr scoring.

Armstrong was still placid, however, and fanned Smith, but he could not get them over for Edmundson, who walked to first, filling the bags.

Keller laid against a curve ball and sent it on a line towards left field past third. Phyle made a lunge for the ball and grabbed it with his bare hand just as it was curving away. It was one of the most spectacular catches made on the Braddock infield this year. W. Thomas made a sensational catch of a foul ball off the left field fence earlier in the game from Keller. Youngstown had opportunities to win, but could not drag a runner over the plate. The score:

WOULD FORM HERE BANK FOR ORIENT

American and Philippine Loan and Trust Company Is Now Being Financed.

MAIN OFFICE IN MANILA, P. I.

Pittsburgh as a factor in this country's oriental island possessions is the prospect that is held forth by a syndicate of men who are financing in this city a financial institution called "American and Philippine Loan and Trust company." Its main office is to be in Manila, Philippine islands.

The company is chartered under the laws of West Virginia with a capital of $100,000. Of this amount $60,000 has already been subscribed and the subscriptions to the balance are now being received.

The president of the concern is C. G. Andrews, of Los Angeles, Cal.; vice-president and treasurer, F. M. Newberry, Pittsburgh; second vice-president, Jose T. Santiago, Manila, P. I.; secretary, Bernard Lawson; United States counsel, the Hon. William M. O. Dawson, governor of West Virginia; Philippine Island counsel, C. W. O'Brien; directors, Messrs. Andrews, Newberry, Lawson, Santiago, and Maj. Charles P. Newberry, formerly of the Thirtieth United States Volunteers.

Maj. Newberry is a brother of F. M. Newberry and through his service in the Philippine islands is familiar with conditions there. He resigned his commission in the army to enter the banking business as a member of the private banking firm of Abreu, Newberry & Reyes, of Manila.

"We believe that we can find in Pittsburgh the capital needed to start and operate this bank," said Secretary Lawson yesterday. "The business of the institution will be found in taking advantage of the extraordinary opportunities which the rapid development of the resources of the Philippines at present offers for a profitable investment. The wealth of the country, held back for years by incapable government and later by lawlessness, now awaits only the needed capital to expand at a speed which would not be possible in an older country."

Maj. Newberry is interested in the "Macleod Coal and Railway concession" on the island of Cebu which has, according to information which has just recently reached him, been upheld by the federal government. To develop the coal on this island a railroad about eight miles in length from the mouth of the mine to the harbor will be needed. The quality of the coal and the amount easily mined are claimed to be beyond criticism.

Inasmuch as the United States government is backing with guarantees a return of 4 per cent railroad construction plans in the Philippines, it is the plan of Maj. Newberry and his associates to secure if possible this railroad. The demand for the coal to supply ships of the United States navy, as well as commercial vessels and industrial establishments, will be great enough to insure steady operation of the mine, he says.

HANDLING CHINESE WITH GREAT CARE AND DISPATCH

Immigrant Officials Are Doing All in Their Power to Save Annoyance to Them.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—In obedience to the order of President Roosevelt that the Chinese exclusion law must be enforced with care and with a view to giving as little offense to the Chinese government as necessary, the officials of the bureau of immigration are using the utmost care these days. During the month of July there were 253 Chinese admitted and nine were deported. Of those admitted, 216 were returning to the United States and were entitled to admission as former residents, and 43 were new arrivals. Of the nine deported, five claimed to be residents and four new arrivals.

As an evidence that the bureau of immigration is causing little embarrassment to Chinamen in the enforcement of the law, it is stated that at the close of business at San Francisco on August 14, seven Chinamen were detained there. The following day 41 Chinamen arrived on the steamship Mongolia, making a total of 48. But when the office closed on August 16 there were but 33 detained, showing that the cases of 15 immigrants had been disposed of and they had been admitted.

The officials are doing everything in their power to give no cause for the Chinese boycott of American goods and oriental immigrants are given more consideration now than they ever received before. L. W. STRAYER.

RESERVES DECISION.

Magistrate Moke Hears Bookmaking Cases but Will Think It Over.

Frank Hathaway, Kirby Meyers and W. C. Cole, who were arrested at the instigation of Superintendent of Police Wallace on a charge of conducting a hand book on the horse races, and running a pool room, were given hearings before Magistrate Moke yesterday and decision was reserved.

Special Officers Levy and Marsh testified that they had seen Meyers and Cole collect several bets on the street and take them to Hathaway in the building. Levy also testified that he heard a man ask Cole for a "tip" on a horse and that Cole demanded $3 before he would give the required information. This procedure is commonly known as "touting." The officers testified to seeing Hathaway making entries in a book, but did not see him accept wagers.

POSTAL SERVICE RED TAPE IS LONG AND TEDIOUS

An idea of the amount of red tape required in the postal service was furnished at Homestead yesterday when Postmaster Grier received the appointment of Miss Alice Eckert as clerk during the absence of Miss Mary Naughton in Europe. Miss Naughton has been gone three months and is expected home today. It took three months to get the temporary appointment through and in the meantime the postoffice has had no clerk.

MR. GILMORE MUCH OBLIGED, BUT NOT OVERLY GENEROUS

Is Terribly Flustered When He Loses His Wallet Containing $3,000, but Comes to Sufficiently to Murmur His Thanks.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—If you found $3,000 and the owner offered you a reward of $1, what would you do?

This question confronted Jacob Sehman of 345 North Sixth street this morning and he solved it by scorning the offer in exchange for the recovery of $3,000 by a man who claimed the wallet which Schman found, and which bore the name of "G. H. Gilmore, New York."

Sehman was walking on Filbert street when he saw a wallet, which he picked up and was about to examine when a man, wild-eyed and flushed, rushed to him and, grasping his arm, said in a quaking voice:

"Did you find a wallet?"

Sehman answered in the affirmative, and the stranger said:

"Well, I just lost one and the name upon it was Gilmore."

Sehman examined the name again, and said:

"That is the name all right. What was in it?"

"Three thousand dollars," exclaimed the loser, excitedly. There was one $1,000 bill, two $500 bills and $1,000 in tens and twenties."

When Sehman fully grasped the significance of this he almost lost his balance and his breath. With trembling fingers he opened the wallet and found that the contents had been described accurately, whereupon he restored it to the owner.

The latter thanked Sehman profoundly, drew a one dollar bill from his pocket, and offered it with the remark that he was glad the wallet was found by an honest man.

Sehman's lip curled contemptuously as he looked the man over and then pushed back the bill, saying, "Excuse me, mister. I am a poor man, but I guess you need that dollar more than I do."

He then walked away, while the man shouted after him: "Well, I'm much obliged, anyway."

Shower Baths in Cleveland Schools.

Cleveland school directors are preparing to introduce shower baths into a number of the school buildings before the opening of school in September. Last year baths were introduced into three of the school buildings, and bathing facilities will be a feature of all the downtown school buildings this year. The children will be allowed 20 minutes from their regular school work to devote to the process of cleansing and it is expected they will take to the water like ducks and bathe at least twice a week hereafter. If the shower baths are favorably received by the children the directors will arrange for their use during certain hours by the general public also. The school directors have taken up the cause of neglected and unfortunate children in Cleveland and the summer playgrounds for two years have been entirely supported by the board of education. The vacation schools have just closed after a successful term of eight weeks. The summer schools were started in that city in 1895 by the women of the Old Stone church. The work was taken up six years later, or in 1901, by the Cleveland Day Nursery and Free Kindergarten association. In 1903 the board of education assumed entire control, providing the money and supervising the work. This year there were 11 vacation schools.

Anniversary of Entering the Home.

Every day during the summer they are kept out of doors upon the plazzas and under the trees, while those who can toddle about play in the sand box arranged for their benefit in the front yard. The white-capped nurses and the little nursery maids, who, while attending the children are also learning their trade, look after them. At present there are 18 babies in the home. As soon as the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company has been completely taken over, the work of absorbing the San Francisco Coke and Gas Company will be undertaken, it is said, by the Rockefeller interests. MR. HYDE ENTERS A STRONG DENIAL

Former Statistician Claims Estimates of Cotton Acreage, June 2, Was Correct.

WILL RETURN TO AMERICA

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Aug. 21.—John Hyde, former statistician of the United States department of agriculture, who at present is in London, has been under the care of a physician for several weeks and is still prohibited by his physician from attendings to business. To the Associated Press tonight he said:

"I have just seen for the first time the revised cotton acreage report issued by the United States department of agriculture on July 26. The crop estimating board reduces the official estimate of June 2 by more than 1,100,000 acres, and even goes so far as to say that I made the estimate lower than the reports received from official reporters employed by the bureau warranted. To this statement I give unqualified denial and assert that the most trustworthy of the various sets of figures on which the report of June 2 was based afforded the most ample warrant for my estimate.

"It is only by an entire disregard of the reports of county and township correspondents that the department's acreage reports can be prevented from once more becoming the laughing stock of the world. When concerned only with the condition of the growing crop, except under special circumstances, the reports of county and township correspondents are not without value. When, however, these correspondents report either upon the acreage or upon the size of the crop in bales, their reports are absolutely worthless.

"For instance, the crop last year was estimated by township correspondents at less than 12,000,000 bales, and by county correspondents at less than 11,000,000 bales. Failure on the part of the board to recognize the widely varying degrees of reliability which characterize the reports of its different classes of correspondents will inevitably destroy the value of its reports for general statistical purposes."

Mr. Hyde said he gave this interview to the Associated Press against the earnest protest of his physician, and he had forwarded an affidavit to Washington covering his connection with the cotton report. He said he expected to return to America about October 1.

FAILURE OF QUORUM BLOCKS FRANCHISE

West Liberty Council's Meeting Not Held—Mayor Not Interested in Castle Shannon.

The special meeting of West Liberty council called for last evening to consider the franchise of the Liberty & West Liberty Street Railway Company, was not held on account of the failure of a quorum to appear.

This company, of which F. W. Mueller of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company is president, has plans for a system of traction roads which will develop some of the residence property in that section. The Pittsburgh Railways Company is putting up a lively opposition to the project, and under another name has plans for lines of its own.

It is expected that there will be a lively meeting of the Castle Shannon stockholders next Thursday when the several bids for the road come up again.

Major William B. Hays, who has been credited with interest in the bid of Milton D. Hays, his cousin, and in the tunnel plans of Attorney A. O. Fording, took occasion yesterday to deny all connection with both.

"I lost about $8,000 by buying Castle Shannon stock some years ago, and I have had all of that I want," said the mayor. "My cousin secured a controlling interest in the road for W. C. Jutte at that time. I understand that he turned the stock over to F. L. Hoffstot and J. W. Friend. I know nothing about my cousin's plans in the railway business. He came here recently from North Carolina, where he had been running a mill for me. It burned down and I sold the property to a Chicago packing house."

Maj. von Coetzen, governor of German East Africa, sends a dispatch denying the report received here August 18, that Mgr. Spies, a Roman Catholic bishop, and two missionary brothers and two members of a religious sisterhood, were murdered by natives. The cruiser Thetis, now on the East Asiatic station, has been ordered to East Africa to co-operate with the cruiser Seeadler in landing detachments to reinforce the small garrisons.

TEMPERANCE MAN PLAYS THE HOBO

Learns Clothes Make the Man and Old Friends Turn Him Down.

ENJOYS HIS EXPERIENCES

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WINSTED, CONN., Aug. 21.—William A. Gleason, a well-known young manufacturer of Torrington and county director of the Connecticut Local Abstinence union, who attended the national temperance convention held in Wilkesbarre, Pa., recently, played hobo on the homeward trip from New York city to Torrington. He sold shoestrings and bad pencils and begged food and lodgings like the real tramp. Disguised as a vagrant Gleason left the Grand Union hotel in New York last Monday at 11 a. m. and reached Torrington Friday night. He beat his fare on the electric roads in the southern part of the state, and in Bridgeport earned 50 cents working in a blacksmith shop.

He called on friends and asked for assistance, and was given the cold shoulder. In South Norwalk he was introduced to a wood pile and sawed and split wood for two hours, and was given his lodging, supper and breakfast. In a Bridgeport restaurant he was taken severely to task by one of the waitresses, and promised the woman to reform and give up the road in the near future. On the outskirts of New Haven a dog attacked him and he lost half an hour sewing his tattered garments.

Though somewhat worn out by the trip, Gleason is satisfied with his week's experience as a hobo. He says he received little of the charity that is preached about, and that the lesson he learned is that the clothes make the man.

In the near future Gleason intends to call on some of the acquaintances who "turned him down" and tell them what he thinks of them. He will also thank the lady in the Milford postoffice who looked so crossly at him when he wrote several postal cards, and the good woman in the Bridgeport restaurant, who pleaded with him to reform and take up a worthy calling.

STRENGTH OF SPECIALTIES THE WALL STREET FEATURE

Reading and Northern Pacific Reach New High Prices. General Market Irregular—Local Securities Dull and Averaged Lower.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was not so broad nor so active as last week. The total sales fell below 650,000 shares, and prices were irregular. The opening was generally higher, and there was a fair amount of commission business. Wall street was inclined to take a less pessimistic view of the outlook for peace. The change in sentiment was due more to a feeling that the great banking interests would withhold additional funds from both Russia and Japan for a continuation of hostilities, rather than to any definite news from the peace envoys.

The real feature of the market, however, was the strength of a few specialties. Reading common was buoyant, advancing to and closing at 115½, the highest price ever quoted. It was practically the only stock to maintain its ground all day. The buying was by the old pool that first carried the stock over par, and predictions were made of much higher prices. Northern Pacific was another stock to score a new high price on this movement, reaching 219½ and closing at 214¾, a net gain for the day of 1¾ per cent. Delaware & Hudson was unusually active, opening at 213 and advancing to 224, or within ½ per cent of its previous high mark. It closed at 223, a net gain for the day of 12 per cent. Northwest advanced 3¼ per cent to 224, and Great Northern preferred advanced from 318½ to 324½, closing at 323.

There was no explanation for the advance in these separate and distinct groups of stocks, which had already reached a level that took them out of the reach of the ordinary investor. The theory that would occur to most people is that the movement was engineered for effect upon the general market, it being possible to put prices higher on smaller transactions than in any other group of stocks, but it is doubtful if the public looks upon these specialties as a criterion of general investment values.

The granger stocks were all moderately active and firm, and in the early dealings advanced. The selling of Union Pacific by London, however, seemed to check the upward tendency. St. Paul, Atchison and Missouri Pacific closed ½ to 1 per cent higher for the day, while Union Pacific closed ⅝ lower and Southern Pacific unchanged. The Wisconsin Central issues were strong and higher and closed at 1@1½ per cent higher.

The Pennsylvania group was moderately active and all closed higher with the exception of Baltimore & Ohio, which closed ¼ per cent lower. There was some irregularity in the industrial list. The range on United States Steel was narrow, the stock opening at 36⅞ and closing at 36½, these being the extremes of the day. The preferred closed ⅛ higher at 104⅝, after selling at 104⅞. The minor iron and steel issues closed ⅛@¼ per cent higher, while Locomotive closed unchanged. Another advance of an eighth of a cent a pound in copper failed to stimulate Amalgamated Copper, the stock opening at 66¾, the highest, and closing at 65½, the lowest. Smelting common closed ⅞ higher and Sugar ½ higher.

Call loan rates ranged between 1¾@2 per cent, the final loan being at 1¾ per cent. Wall street continues to express confidence in a reasonably easy money market, although all the indications point the other way.

Commodity markets were active and irregular. Cotton closed higher, while wheat closed ⅝c lower for the September option in Chicago, and corn closed ⅜c lower.

The local stock market was dull and narrow, and with two unimportant exceptions closed unchanged or lower than on Saturday. The largest individual transaction was 1,000 shares Philadelphia Company common at 45¾, a decline of 1¼ points from the last previous sale. At the close 45½ was bid for 500 shares. A small lot of Ohio Fuel Supply sold at 42½, and advance of ½. Pittsburgh Oil and Gas sold at 56, a decline of 1¼ per cent. Manufacturers Light and Heat declined to 37 and closed at that price bid. Only 20 shares Pittsburgh Coal preferred changed hands all day at 52@52¾, and the stock closed offered at 53½, with 52 bid. The common stock was offered at 14⅝, but there were no sales. River Coal preferred was nominally quoted at 24 bid, 26½ asked. Crucible Steel common sold to the extent of 560 shares at 12½, and the preferred was unchanged at 64½. National Fire Proofing declined to 8 and the preferred to 29½. Lustre rallied to 38¾, and closed at 38½ bid. Tonopah Extension was offered down to $5 85, but no stock changed hands. United Copper was a fraction lower at 38¾, and closed at 36 bid. American Sewer Pipe declined to 32⅜ and closed at 33⅛ bid. Pittsburgh Brewing common was moderately active at 26½, and closed offered at that price. Westinghouse Electric sold at 85@85⅛ and closed at 84¾ bid. Window Glass preferred sold at 45, a decline of 3½ per cent. Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville 5s sold at 102½, a decline of ¼ per cent.

FLAGSHIP REACHES PORT.

Raymond Horner Gets Into Cincinnati With Her Tow of Coal.

The Raymond Horner got into Cincinnati Sunday as the flagship of the fleet of towboats which left this city on the rise last week. The other boats followed her in, all of them getting through safely with their tows of coal. The Coal City and Tom Rees No. 2 at once started on the return trip. The Josh Cook will get into Cincinnati today with her tow, having started about 24 hours later than the other boats.

The J. B. Williams, which struck a snag at Golconda, Ill., and sank, has been raised and will be docked at Paducah for repairs.

The Resolute is on the ways at Elizabeth.

The passenger boats are still doing plenty of business and enjoying lots of water. The Keystone State arrived yesterday from Cincinnati, and the Bessie Smith got in from Parkersburg. The Kanawha also got in from Charleston.

A Square Deal

Do not allow your attention to be diverted from the main issue. Select a purely Mutual Company which is doing a conservative business and pays annual dividends. Companies that write the largest business and enjoy the greatest premium income, have not made the best returns to policyholders.

THE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE returns to and gains for policy-holders more per $100 premiums received, than any other company.

It has returned to its members 100.68% of their premiums or $204,353,498

Premiums received since 1846 202,759,264

Excess returned over premiums $1,594,234

Accumulated assets on hand 65,284,841

Gain over premium receipts $66,819,065

CONNECTICUT MUTUAL returns stand unequaled. That is the main issue.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH	IN WALL STREET
Stock market extremely dull and narrow, prices averaging lower.	Strength of the specialties the feature of the stock market.
A block of 1,000 shares Philadelphia Company sold at 45½, a decline.	Trading was less active, and closing prices were irregular.
Sewer Pipe and Fire Proofing shares closed slightly lower.	Reading and Northern Pacific scored new high prices.
Crucible and United States Steel issues all closed dull and unchanged.	Steel preferred closed a shade higher and Copper a fraction lower.
Window Glass preferred sold at 45, a decline of 3½ per cent.	Sales included 647,000 shares stock and $2,685,000 bonds.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The peace envoys are expected to resume their conference at Portsmouth today, and the outcome of the negotiations was a subject much discussed in financial circles yesterday. Foreign security markets were reported to be lifeless awaiting news, while in Wall street there was a more confident feeling that the conclusion would be favorable to peace. While it is true that the last issue of $150,000,000 Japanese 4½s was unexpected in financial circles, and the proceeds of that issue might carry Japan over into the first quarter of next year, in case of a resumption of hostilities, it is also true that another external war loan by either of the belligerents could not be floated except at ruinous rates of interest and discount. The question of peace or war, therefore, is really in the hands of the international bankers. This being so, one may be able to get as reliable a pointer as to the future from the stock market as anywhere else. In New York yesterday the three senior issues of Japanese war bonds were strong and closed at the highest. The net gains were ⅝ per cent for the first 4s, ¼ for the second 4s, ⅝ for the first 4½s and the second 4½s, after opening ½ lower than on Saturday, recovered the loss and closed unchanged for the day. The bond market, therefore, strongly points to peace.

London's participation in the New York market was disappointingly small in view of the strength of Americans at that center. Foreign bankers are mostly of the opinion that the continent is more inclined to buy here on slight recessions than on any marked development of strength.

There was a noteworthy absence of activity during the day in such stocks as have recently been market leaders. Trading in Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Paul and Atchison was relatively light, and some pressure was shown throughout. This same condition applied to the leading industrials, including United States Steel common and preferred.

Of the minor railway stocks, almost the only one calling for comment was Wisconsin Central, the common and preferred making further advances on a renewal of rumors hinting at a change of control.

Time and call money rates were practically unchanged in New York, though indications point to a slight hardening in long time loans in spite of the light demand. There was a temporary halt in the flow of cash to the interior, but this is expected to assume its fullest proportions in the course of the next few weeks.

The following transactions were reported in the local market yesterday: $6z $1,000 4 per cent bonds of the Logansport Coal Company at $10 each; 40 shares of the stock at $1 a share; 28 5 per cent 4-1,000 bonds of the Wellsburg & Buffalo Valley Company at $10 each.

In the local curb market Window Glass Machine preferred was offered at 25; Fayette County Gas offered at 95; Pure Oil, 5¼ bid, 6 asked; Union Natural Gas, 110 bid, 112 asked; Kansas Gas, 50 bid, 52 asked; Luna Park, 105 bid, 125 asked; Golden Anchor Mine, 95 bid, 95 asked; Original & Mahaska, 50c bid; Home Tonopah, 10c bid, 12 asked.

Sproul & Co. were the sellers of a block of 1,500 shares Philadelphia Company common at 45¾ to M. K. Mullin & Co.

On the exchange $100 was bid for the privilege of calling 100 shares Lustre this year at 50, and the privilege was offered at $150.

Local stock market conditions were under discussion in a Fourth avenue office yesterday afternoon. "I cannot understand why the market remains so lifeless," remarked one, "especially as prices here are so much lower than prices for the same class of stocks in New York." "Why, that's easy," remarked another; "it's because Pittsburgh traders are so poor in cash and so rich in stocks that pay no dividends." "That does not explain the situation," responded the first speaker; "because I never knew a year when so many of our traders are away on vacations, and they couldn't pay vacation expenses with non-dividend stocks."

Bets of two to one have been made in New York on interests in close touch with the Republic Iron and Steel Company that the directors will declare a dividend of 1¾ per cent, on the preferred stock at the meeting on the 31st. President Thompson is said to be in favor of a dividend.

Childs & Childs, the new Pittsburgh brokerage firm, with memberships in the New York and Pittsburgh stock exchanges, opened their offices for business in the Arrott building yesterday. Alexander M. Byers, the Pittsburgh stock exchange member of the firm, was a seller of Crucible Steel preferred.

In the fiscal year ended June 30, the New York, Ontario & Western made approximately 2.39 per cent on the common stock after charges. Its increase in gross business for the year was $435,465, the net earnings increased $95,294 and the charges $53,254, while the increase in surplus after charges was $396,464.

Gross earnings of Southern Railway for the second week in August decreased $7,000. This is the first weekly decrease reported for some time.

Buffalo & Susquehanna directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on the preferred stock, payable September 1 to stock of record August 16.

"It is time," says an old-time Wall street commission house dealer in bonds, "to ask whether the leading bonds on Wall street are not too high. There are too many records scored in the bond market every week. Almost any advance of a point in the middle class list will make a new record. A years ago we were scraping along the bottom. Now, it seems to me, we are jumping from wave crest to wave crest. I don't exactly what you would call safe navigation for women and children."

Gross earnings of Louisville & Nashville for the second week in August increased $11,000.

The advances in Delaware & Hudson and the Hill stocks attracted little attention, because as it is generally recognized that the floating supply of these and similar issues is small and manipulators are thus enabled to move them at will.

The Gould stocks were prominent in the day's movements, though no special reasons other than good crop conditions were heard. Western advices tell of a shortage of cars to meet the coming crop requirements and it is quite likely that transportation facilities on most of the more important railway systems will be greatly overtaxed once the crop movement gets under way. Chicago reports unusually heavy traffic east and west, shipments of flour and grain being greatly in excess of the corresponding periods last year and trade managers of the great freight carrying lines are optimistic to an unwonted degree on the outlook.

United States Government 3s, 2s and the old 4s each advanced ¼ per cent on call in New York.

Offer of $325,000 for the Shannon Property in Fourth Avenue Is Refused.

A PENN AVENUE WAREHOUSE

Although the real estate market has come almost to a standstill, the tendency of realty values in the downtown district is moving upward and it is probable that when the market resumes its activity some new prices for downtown property will be made. In Fourth avenue, where the price a foot front has been moving upward steadily and where the opportunity to make a deal has narrowed to a few properties, new values are appearing and it is probable that record prices in that street will shortly have to be readjusted.

The Shannon building, at 326 Fourth avenue, which is one of the few pieces of realty in the street on the market at present, has taken a jump in value, and if a deal for the property goes through a new price for frontage in the street between Wood and Smithfield streets will have been set. Some time ago an offer of $300,000 was made for the Shannon property, but was turned down. The price the property is held at has not been fully ascertained, but it has become known that an offer of $325,000 has just been refused.

The Shannon property consists of a lot 30x85 feet and is improved with a six-story brick office building. John C. Reilly is the owner. At $325,000 the offer makes the frontage worth $10,833 a foot front, which is a bigger price than has been received for any piece of frontage in Fourth avenue.

New Houses for McKees Rocks.

As the result of a deal recently put through by the Commonwealth Real Estate company in the McKees Rocks district, another lot of houses will be erected in that borough. Andrew Hober & Sons, contractors, a short time ago secured eight lots having a total frontage of 208 feet, with a depth of 120 feet. The frontage is located at Helen avenue and Charles alley, and will be improved with 21 brick dwelling houses to cost in the neighborhood of $37,800. The houses will contain five and six rooms, with bath. At the corner of the property the firm will erect a three-story store and flat building. The frontage was sold by Olivia B. Munson for $7,000.

Another property in lower Penn avenue, near Fourth street, is to be improved and will add another good warehouse to that district. The contract for the building was closed yesterday afternoon and the warehouse will be erected by Bailey, Lee & Bailey, for the building of Penn avenue, for F. E. Schenck. The new building, which will cost $60,000 to erect, will be located on the property known as 432 and 434 Penn avenue. It will be a six-story reinforced concrete fireproof structure. The property is now occupied by old brick buildings and is opposite the University clinic property.

Let Building Contracts.

Contractor Kreusler has also received the contract to erect a three-story addition to the A. A. Frauenheim property in Wightman street, Squirrel hill, and the improvement will cost about $6,000. Mr. Frauenheim recently acquired title to the property in an exchange deal. James McNeill has also given a contract to Contractor Kreusler to build a one-story brick office building in Twenty-ninth street, below Smallman street, to cost about $5,000.

Several small deals were concluded yesterday by the Commonwealth Real Estate Company, as follows: For Henry Belken, a lot 25x100, improved with a six-room frame dwelling, was sold to David McBride for $2,600; seven lots in Boundary street, each 24x100 feet, were sold to E. M. Brickell for a total of $2,100, and for Robert Jenkins to Alpern H. Sedery, 20x70 feet in Tannehill street, for $2,580.

A handsome brick residence on the west side of South Negley avenue, near Ellsworth avenue, Twentieth ward, has changed owners, the price paid being $12,000. Robert B. Wolfel sold the property to Thomas B. Riter. The lot measures 50x171 feet.

Christina Wunderlich sold to William King a lot 30x132 feet in Tioga street, near Rosedale street, Twenty-first ward, for $7,600. The lot is improved with a dwelling.

Small Deals Are Increasing.

Thomas Donnelly sold to Margaret Hippert an improved lot, 51x103 feet in Hemans street, Thirteenth ward, for $2,835.

Benjamin H. Lee has purchased for $1,600 an improved lot, measuring 37x100 feet, in Ceres alley, near Emerald street, Thirty-first ward, from Catherine Simmen.

David Bissett & Co. sold for Mrs. Catherine O'Reilly to Mrs. Emma Kerr, 90x75 feet, improved with two six-room frame houses, in Jennie street, for $1,400 cash, and also for Mrs. Reilly to John Boyd three vacant lots in Jennie street for $300 cash. The same brokers also sold for Mrs. Catherine Tanner to George Zehfuss, a vacant lot 28x110 feet in Boggs avenue, Thirty-second ward, and also for the Beechwood Improvement Company to J. F. Sweeny, a five-room frame house on a lot 24x94 feet, in Boggs avenue, for $2,000 cash.

The Diamond Real Estate Company sold for the Provident Land Company to Frank D. Baker, lot 71 in Nanson street, near Flowers avenue, Twenty-third ward, for $300.

P. V. Schuckert sold to Mrs. Veronica Schauer a lot 25x62 feet in Industry street, Thirty-first ward, for $2,425.

Mrs. R. S. Wamser bought 26x100 feet in Lang avenue, near Reynolds street, Twenty-first ward, from C. W. Houston, for $1,100.

After McKeesport Block.

A deal is reported to be under way for the property at Fifth avenue and Walnut street, McKeesport, owned by Dr. T. L. White of that city. It is reported the whole block is wanted by Pittsburgh and Chicago capitalists, and is held at $600,000.

Herman H. Thoerner sold to William Taylor 20x120 feet, improved, in Atwell street, Twenty-first ward, for $2,850.

W. D. Hays sold to Emma H. Dye a lot 40x120 feet in Amber street, Twentieth ward, for $8,000.

A. W. Holthouse has bought, through C. W. Martin, the Wilkinsburg broker, from Harry G. Phillips, two modern eight-room brick houses in South avenue, Wilkinsburg. These houses have a frontage of 25 feet and extend through to Johnson street. The consideration was $10,000. In part payment Mr. Holthouse gives five lots in the Twenty-third ward, Pittsburgh, valued at $5,000. This property was taken as an investment, being well rented.

POTATOES RECORDED ALMOST A FAILURE

Dealers Look for High Price on Tubers During the Fall and Winter.

There were comparatively few changes to record in the markets yesterday. The setting seemed to have all taken place Saturday. Flour was still weak at the new price, although the trade has improved considerably. There was a decided improvement in sugar, dealers seeming to think it had gone about as low as could be expected and that there would be no better time to buy than while the price is down.

In green goods and general produce and fruits there was little doing. Monday never is an important market day. It is usually devoted to cleaning up the odds and ends left over from Saturday and getting ready for the busier trade of Tuesday. Potatoes moved up again and the white potato is now but 25 cents a barrel less than sweet potatoes. The top does not appear to have been reached even yet, as reports from all sections indicate that the potato crop is a woeful failure. Farmers who had counted on hundreds of bushels are now saying that they will be thankful for enough to feed their families and will have none to sell. Wet weather is blamed for the trouble. From this viewpoint dollar potatoes are confidently looked for in the city markets this fall and winter.

There were no changes of note in the hay and grain market. Prices held the same as last quoted and receipts were light. New hay is beginning to move briskly and all the oats now coming in are new. Now wheat has also taken the place of old. The crops have been ample, but no lower prices are looked for as there is an abundant demand for the supply.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The market for coffee futures opened steady; unchanged to 5 points lower, under scattering liquidation, promoted by indifferent European cables and somewhat heavier Brazilian receipts. A private cable was received, however, claiming that frost had greatly damaged the coming crop in the northern zone and that the present crop of Santos would not exceed 4,000,000 bags. This attracted reporting orders from Wall street bull sources and commission houses, and at one time during the session the market was 5 to 10 points higher. Increased liquidation by nearby longs eased the market off toward the close, and at the total business reported, some 180,000 bags consisted of switches from near to late months. The market was finally steady, but unchanged. Sales were reported of 30,000 bags, including September at 4.75@4.80c; December at 5.05@5.10c; March at 5.20@5.25c; May at 5.30@5.35c; July at 5.45@5.50c. Spot has steady, mild dull. Brooke County, West Virginia, Produces Some Good Wells

A new development that is calling out some work is located near Wellsburg in Brooke county, W. Va. Several gas producers have been completed recently in that district. The latest is the Kremer Oil Company's No. 2 on the Carmichael farm. It is reported to be a natural producer good for 30 barrels a day.

So far as development work has progressed, the producing streak shows to be narrow and operators are not inclined to drill for any considerable distance to either side for fear of draining the producing formation. There are some half dozen wells drilling and starting in the district and more located. The oil is developed in the Berea grit and the wells show the staying qualities that are characteristic of the Berea formation.

In the Elm Run district, in Brooke county, A. C. Hawkins has drilled his No. 4 on the A. Rutherford farm deeper and will have a 15 or 20-barrel producer, instead of a 5-barrel pumper, as previously reported.

In Ten Mile district, Harrison county, the Philadelphia Company has completed and shut in test on the N. W. Davisson farm and may be a very big gusher.

On Meathouse Fork, West Union district, Doddridge county, J. D. Trainer is starting a test on the Belle Neals farm. On Horn creek, in Troy District, Gilmer county, the Crude Oil Company is drilling a test on the Peter Cole farm.

On Seven Mile creek, Cabell county, Lowe, Carr & Fitch have drilled their test on the Henderson farm through the Berea grit and have a duster. This test is located far to advantage of developments, near Milton.

In the Wolf Summit field, in Harrison county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its test on the J. W. Monroe farm into the Gordon and has a show for a 15-barrel pumper. It is still drilling and may find a second pay.

South of Mannington, in Marion county, the Philadelphia Company has drilled its test on the Monroe farm into the Mig sand and has a fair pumper.

Near Bola, Wetzel county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its second test on the Catherine Gump farm into the Gordon and has a show for a 15-barrel pumper. It is now drilling to the fourth sand.

In the Sistersville district, the Home Gas Company is drilling in the top of the Gordon at its test on the H. L. Smith farm.

On the Ohio side, in the Wells Creek district, south of Pleasants county, Carter Oil Company, Cooper Bros. Lease Co. and Cassinelli & Co. are drilling on the Vaughn heirs' farm through the Berea grit and have a natural producer good for 25 barrels a day.

Near Mossy, Jefferson, Harrison county, and about midway between Jewett and Archbald, Middleton & Co. are due to the mid 1,000 Imperial test on the W. H. Caldwell farm. This test is drilled with a view to finding a connecting link between the Jewett and Jefferson fields.

In the Pinto development, near Jewett, Harrison county, Bower & Copeland have completed No. 3 on the Wesley Masters farm and have a duster in the Berea grit.

In the Wolf Creek district, Washington county, Linsley & Co. have completed a test on the Samuel Sampson farm and have a duster in the shallow sand.

In the Chester Hill district, Morgan county, the Ohio & Indiana Oil Company has completed No. 10 on the W. W. Stanley farm and has a 30-barrel producer. The same company has completed No. 7 on the C. F. Post farm and had the same kind of luck.

In the Quintenmont field, in Washington county, Pa., H. G. Gillespie has completed No. 11 on the G. M. Cameron farm and has a show for a 15-barrel pumper.

Drygoods.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The drygoods market was still dominated by a hesitancy foreshadowing today and operations were limited to goods where buyers believe that advances to go into forward the time warranted by conditions. At the same time buyers are very anxious to have cotton goods delivered and are pushing full asking prices.

MAKING PROGRAM FOR LINES WEST

Looking Into Pennsylvania Improvements for 1906—Fall Work on Wabash Roads.

SWATY AND ROWE PROMOTED

Officers of the Pennsylvania lines west have started to look about for suggestions for the improvement program for next season. The first of these parties that will travel over the division's consists of Superintendent P. A. Bonebrake and members of his staff on the Pittsburgh division of the Southwest system. Mr. Bonebrake left Pittsburgh yesterday morning in a special train, with the other officers, and will spend about four days looking into the particular needs of "bridges and structures" on his division. This is a preliminary trip to the more close inspection trip to be made later in the season by Chief Engineer Maintenance of Way W. C. Cushing and Engineer of Bridges J. C. Bland, and the latter trip will be followed by the official trip of the president, general manager and engineers, who will pass finally on such recommendations as are deemed most essential to the welfare of the road and its patrons.

There are two important pieces of work in connection with bridges and structures that have been talked of for a number of years. These are the proposed new Ohio river bridge between Wheeling Junction and Steubenville and the new station at Steubenville. Whether either will be taken up remains for the higher officers to decide, for it is almost certain that these improvements, or at least the Steubenville station, will be included in the recommendations by Superintendent Bonebrake. The interior of the Steubenville station is now being given a coat of paint, which might tend to the belief that no station will be built there for a couple of years, but the point is an important one for the Pennsylvania lines, almost every train of the system stopping there, and a new station is needed. Preliminary plans for the rebuilding of the Ohio river bridge have been prepared for some time.

Superintendent Bonebrake is accompanied by Engineer Maintenance of Way W. D. Wiggins, Assistant Train Master W. R. Lehew, H. H. Pollock, master carpenter of buildings, and J. W. Shields, master carpenter of bridges.

Burgess' Successor Is Named.

Announcements were made by Chief Engineer Maintenance of Way Robert Trimble and W. C. Cushing of the Northwest and Southwest systems of the Pennsylvania lines west, respectively, yesterday, of the changes incident to the resignation of George H. Burgess, who will become assistant engineer of the Erie railroad on September 1. D. Y. Swaty, assistant engineer of the Southwest system under Mr. Cushing, is appointed assistant engineer of the Northwest system under Mr. Trimble, to succeed Mr. Burgess. Mr. Swaty is succeeded by C. E. Rowe, who is given an advancement in position as assistant engineer on the Southwest system, although his title remains unchanged. Mr. Swaty's rise has been rapid, he having started in the office of Mr. Trimble as a draughtsman on August 1, 1890. His first outside work of any considerable nature was the Grant street freight house in this city, of which work he had charge. He continued under Mr. Trimble until about three years ago, when he was transferred to the Southwest system. Mr. Rowe has been in the service of the Pennsylvania lines for about 12 years. Prior to his being appointed assistant engineer he was identified with a couple of the divisions as assistant engineer maintenance of way, in which positions he had considerable outside work. Both appointments are effective September 1.

Expect Big Movement to Denver.

Passenger traffic men are expecting a record-breaking excursion business from here to Denver next week, due to the exceedingly low rates that will be available for all who desire to go to Colorado. District Passenger Agent J. K. Dillon, in speaking of this phase of the business, said: "The scattering business incident to the G. A. R. low rate of $29.90 for the round trip, which is about $11 less than the one-way rate, will be very heavy. The tickets are good until October 7, and the Pennsylvania system alone will have one extra special train, and possibly two, to care for this travel. The Ft. Wayne, in addition to handling the Post 88 party of Allegheny in a special train of ten Pullman tourist cars, will have a special train for Post 128 of Allegheny. This train will leave here on the morning of September 1, running as an escort to the 'Headquarters train,' which will come from Philadelphia and will follow the Pittsburgh train as a second section. The extra travel of persons not connected with the G. A. R. will necessitate another train from here, and if the present inquiry keeps up there will likely be two train loads."

Statements for July.

The following figures for increases in the estimated earnings, expenses and net earnings of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company for July, 1905, and for the seven months ended July 31, as compared with corresponding period of 1904, are shown in the statement issued by Secretary S. F. Liggett: July—Gross earnings, $238,101; operating expenses, $171,987; net earnings, $39,886 (decrease). Seven months—Gross earnings, $1,158,865; operating expenses, $1,038,482; net earnings, $120,383.

The July statement of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, exclusive of controlled or affiliated lines, show the following figures and comparisons with July, 1904: Gross earnings, $5,303,830, an increase of $494,283; expenses, $3,756,904, an increase of $325,247; net earnings, $2,017,926, an increase of $169,041.

Looking Into Fall Work for Wabash.

Vice President B. A. Worthington, General Manager Robert Blickensderfer and Chief Engineer George T. Barnsley of the Wabash lines east of Toledo are spending several days this week looking over the Wheeling & Lake Erie road and branches. This trip, on which the officers started Sunday night, is being made with a view to ascertain what improvements must be made on the Ohio lines this fall, so as to place them in better shape for handling the increasing tonnage. Sidings will be extended along the whole main line, and the docks at Huron will be enlarged and equipped with coal-handling machinery. These improvements are made possible by the $8,000,000 secured through the New York financiers a few days ago by President F. A. Delano.

Cleveland Station Meeting Friday.

Arrangements have been made to hold a joint meeting between representatives of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railways and the Pennsylvania lines west, at Cleveland, next Friday, to take steps toward the building of a union station for these three roads in Cleveland. The Pennsylvania lines will probably be represented by General Manager G. L. Peck, General Superintendent A. M. Schoyer and Chief Engineer of Maintenance of Way Robert Trimble. The Big Four will likely be represented by General Manager C. E. Schaff and Chief Engineer G. W. Kittredge, and the Lake Shore by General Manager W. H. Marshall and Chief Engineer Samuel Rockwell.

ANOTHER THEATER OPENS ITS DOORS

WILD MELODRAMA OF PLAINS.

With the inauguration of the second season at the Gayety theater, Messrs. Hyde & Behman make a sweeping change. From drama and comedy to burlesque with vaudeville trimmings, is a far cry, even in this day of lightning change in the amusement world. The reasons for the transformation at the Gayety have already been explained. A managerial row between the heads of burlesque circuits caused a division of the available bookings, and Hyde & Behman, who own the Gayety, are largely interested in burlesque. They came to the rescue by giving over their Pittsburgh house to the burlesque bookings. This is not the place to discuss the effect upon the theatrical privileges that may or may not accrue to Pittsburghers through this change. There were reasonably large audiences in attendance yesterday, both at the matinee and in the evening. It was noticeable that many ladies were in the audience, in boxes and orchestra. Manager Orr was an exceedingly busy man and kept his eye carefully on the performance, it being the purpose of the management to keep the Gayety burlesque clean, as clean as this happy-go-lucky style of amusement can be kept. Weber's "Parisian Widows" company is the opening attraction, greatly strengthened from its old Academy days. The burlesques are laughable for those who like modern burlesque with its broad effects. The pieces are both staged with lavishness and there is a pleasing ensemble and chorus—much better than one is in the habit of seeing with burlesque.

The olio is a strong one, headed by Charmion, the famous trapeze performer, who adds sensationalism to her act by a disrobing performance that is, of course, valuable only for its suggestiveness, a rather doubtful value, but an old favorite with burlesque patrons. Charmion is, apart from this, an exceedingly well looking woman, and her trapeze work is excellent. The Three Keltons do a fine musical act. Baby Kelton alone being a prodigy in the skill with which she performs on several instruments. Ben Welch is always good. Both in the burlesque and in his olio monologues and songs he made a hit. There is some good acrobatic work by Bertro and Dermont, novelty singing by Sisters Valmore, and Honan and Kearney do a talking and singing act. It is well to add that there will be no smoking in the balcony at the Gayety.

Bijou—"King of the Wild West."

Bijou patrons filled that house yesterday afternoon and evening to witness a Blaney play of the wild and woolly west. They found it quite to their liking if applause for heroes and hisses for villains proves anything. "King of the Wild West" is fearfully and wonderfully made. It is a play that literally "keeps things moving." The gun play is terrific. Either someone is being shot or missed nearly all the time the curtain is up. Its types are unreal, all except a half-dozen Indians who are said to be from the Carlos reservation, and who contribute at least a touch of local color to the play. The plot revolves around the schemes of a villain to rob the hero and his sister of the profits of a rich mine in Arizona. There are cowboys and the usual western adventurers, serious and comic, while the brave girl who shoots a pistol at every opportunity, figures largely in the development of the plot. The cast is not a strong one, but works hard for effects. Young Buffalo is the name given the actor who plays the leading role. The presumption is that he is a native cowboy. He is not by any means a bad actor. Harold La Costa, Charles Drake, Eugene La Rue, Antoine Provost, Charlotte Huntington, Vivian Prescott and Maggie Meredith are among the players who do good work. The scenery and effects are crude in some instances, but the noise and gun play kept the audience to a high state of interest and excitement.

Academy—The Utoplans.

Competition and a rival "disrobing act" did not seem to affect the Academy patronage last night, and the usual "standing room only" sign was displayed before 8 o'clock. The Utoplans are the attraction in a commonplace burlesque entertainment which differs little from the average, either in quality or originality. The opening and closing acts are called "Mixed, Muddled and Mixed," and are supposed to run along on a sort of plot, but it is soon lost in the stock comedy and chorus numbers. The latter furnish the bright spots in the entertainment and afford relief from the lines of the writer of the piece. The girls are attractive in their many new costumes and the songs are up to date.

The featured "disrobing act" is contributed by the female member of the trapeze act team of Silverin and Emerie, but the real entertainment is furnished by the gallery gods, and four persons out of five would consider their contribution worth the price of admission. The olio is of ordinary character and includes Rose Jeannette, and Blackford and Hunter in singing and dancing acts; the Ashtons in a juggling turn; Madden and Jess and the Brooks brothers in comedy sketches, and Hona San, a Japanese picture act of considerable beauty.

Nixon—"Simple Simon Simple."

This musical nonsense piece that was reviewed in The Gazette Sunday morning will remain at the Nixon for two weeks. The skit, for it is little more, has been liberally put forward, but it does not represent any merit beyond the tunefulness of some of its music and the grouping of some of its features. The book of the piece is silly, and the comic supplement characters are simply used as pivots around which revolves the music and specialties. However, if you like nonsense, you'll like this kind.

Alvin—Eva Tanguay.

This vivacious and nervous young woman and her merry associates in the "Sambo Girl" had large audiences yesterday and is proving popular among popular-priced lovers of musical comedy. The chorus is lively, Miss Lawrence sings well and the entertainment is breezy enough for hot weather.

At Traction Parks.

Only two more weeks remain of the park theater season at Southern and Oakwood, and as a fitting finale Manager A. S. McSwigan has arranged high class entertainments. An exceptionally strong bill is presented this week. At Southern it is headed by Robinson and Grant, the famous midget comedians, who have been seen in this city in past years with Lilliputian companies. Another Pittsburgh favorite is Lillian Bender, expert fancy violinist. The Aerial Weavers do a thrilling trapeze act full of novelty, and McCarty and Reina keep the audience in roars of laughter with their witticisms as black face comedians. New motion pictures are presented by the cameragraph.

At Oakwood park the bill is headed by the Great Heywood in a novelty singing act which has never before been seen in this section. Myers and Rose have a sensational novelty in a china plate juggling act. Roney and King are two clever singing comedians. Warldorf and Mendez do a sensational acrobatic act. The new motion pictures include a laughable presentation, "Lost, Strayed or Stolen."

ROMANTIC CAREER ENDS IN THE PENITENTIARY

Former Member of Pennsylvania Legislature Sentenced to Massachusetts States Prison.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, MASS., Aug. 21.—Once a member of the Pennsylvania legislature, J. D. Standish, alias F. W. Boye, a civil war veteran, aged 72, was today sentenced to prison for from three to six years for uttering three forged checks.

The old man had just completed serving two and a half years in the Trenton, N. J., prison for forgery, and was delivered for sentence here. Standish's counsel related to Judge Dewolfrey many details of his client's eventful life. In 1861 he went surveying on an expedition to Kansas and was the only member of the party who escaped a war party of Indians. He was guided out of the wilderness by an Indian girl and reached Pennsylvania in safety.

During the civil war he was sent to Libby prison, from which he escaped. He settled in Pennsylvania after the war, became county surveyor and was at one time a member of the Pennsylvania legislature.

In 1888, Standish was arrested in Fargo, N. D., on a charge of swindling in Canada and was taken to Manitoba and sentenced to 10 years in Stony Ford prison. It is alleged that Standish, through false testimony, was convicted of a crime committed by Charles A. Chandler of this city, who had embezzled $50,000 in Canada. Meanwhile the real Chandler died in St. Albans, Vermont, and Standish was pardoned by the premier of Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Counsel, asking for clemency, said Standish had two rich sons who are ranchmen, and also a rich brother in Philadelphia.

HEADQUARTERS ARE OPEN.

Chairman Andrews Says Work Commenced When Convention Adjourned.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—Col. W. R. Andrews, Republican state chairman, spent the day at state headquarters, returning to Atlantic City tonight.

"There will be no formal opening of state headquarters," said Chairman Andrews. "Work began when the state convention adjourned and is being continued at my office at the shore. I am in constant touch with all of the county leaders, and their reports are very satisfactory. About September 1 I will come to Philadelphia and remain at headquarters until the votes are counted." Col. Andrews' health is much improved. He was able yesterday to enjoy a four-mile walk.

HAY FEVER

Two cents will prove that hay fever can be quickly stopped and cured.

Send a two-cent stamp to pay postage for a free sample of Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm—also Booklet on hay fever—to Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, O.

"I must say that your Catarrh Balm is the only medicine that did me any good in hay fever, and I have tried everything I heard of. I received benefit from the first application and now I can breathe as easily as I can in May or June—my head and nose are clear. I suffered with hay fever for 16 years, many nights could not lie down at all; then the heat of the day, with flying dust, would nearly set me crazy—in fact, life was not desirable under such circumstances. I am glad that I found your remedy. Will recommend your balm anywhere and everywhere."

James Gronendyke,
Middletown, Ind., Sept. 7, 1903.

Under date of August 15, 1905, Mr. Gronendyke writes: "I have not the least symptom of hay fever now. I can cut weeds, bale hay and straw without fear from hay fever. $1,000 would not be any inducement to have hay fever as I had before your balm cured me two years ago."

ELECTRIC ENGINE FOR USE ON PENNSYLVANIA

Locomotive Arrives at Westinghouse Works for Motor Equipment—To Be Tested.

One of the several electric locomotives the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is building at its Altoona shops for use in the New York lines when the big tunnels are completed, arrived at the Westinghouse works at East Pittsburgh from Altoona last evening. It will be equipped with the electric appliances at once, and, after it has been tested on the Interworks road of the electric company, will be sent to New York.

It is not the intention to equip any portion of the local lines of the Pennsylvania to make a test with this engine. The other similar engines being built at Altoona will be completed in a short time and will also be equipped at the Westinghouse works.

The electric train operations on the Long Island railroad, which is a portion of the Pennsylvania system, are being watched with much interest by railroad men throughout the country. This mode of traction power for passenger train operations on steam railroads, it is claimed by some of the most wideawake railway managers, must eventually be adopted for the passenger service in the thickly settled districts. On August 25 the Long Island will extend the use of electric motive power to another suburban division on Long Island. The service is said to be proving popular, there being a quicker operation for the distance covered, owing to the easier starting and stopping of the trains, and there being no smoke or cinders.

Low Rates to Butler Fair Via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Tickets on sale for all trains August 23 to 25, good returning until August 26 inclusive. Special trains returning August 24 and 25.
